Chacma Is Stuffed

J. S. Sargent, a Good Man

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.)

THE BIG CHACMA BABOON, shot in the monkey house the other day after he had killed his inoffensive brother, the ring-tailed monkey, has gone to the Museum of Natural History. There he will stand stuffed.

One of these days, for the edification of children of a more civilized race, they may put wax figures of Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon alongside the stuffed baboon with this sign: "Children, respect this baboon. He killed only one ring-tailed monkey, the other three killed millions."

BERNARD F. GIMBEL, who, with his father, uncles, brother and cousins, run several big department stores, informs business men of New York, through this column, that there is a real competitor in town.

This new department store man, who will run the old established house of Stern Brothers, is Samuel D. Mundheim of Pittsburgh. "He will make all the New York storekeepers take notice," says Mr. Gimbel.

DEPARTMENT STORES become daily more important, not only in the service of the public, but in the opinion of high finance. Men with money realize that for steel, oil, copper you have a few customers. For a well-run department store you have for customers the entire public, for your receipts you have a big percentage of the annual income of the United States, and money pours in every day.

Marshall Field & Co., in Chicago, do a total business of more than one hundred and fifty millions. The department store is only starting.

THE POPULATION of the United States has increased by eight million during the past five years. There are 115,000,000 of us now. When the ill-informed suggest that population will outgrow the country, don't worry.

The State of Texas alone under intensive cultivation, could feed easily two thousand million human beings, about four hundred millions more than there are on earth now.

AS FOR THE IGNORANT MAN who says: "More population will reduce wages." Ask him how it happens that, when there were only four million people in the United States wages averaged less than forty cents a day, whereas with one hundred millions they average close to four dollars?

JOHN SINGER SARGENT died suddenly in London yesterday morning. He was a good painter and a good man. If he meets his Maker "face to face," as Tennyson expected to do, he will be able to say truly: "I did the best that I could with the talent and power that you gave me."

SARGENT will not stand among the first ten or the first fifty or one hundred best painters. The human race does only ONE thing at a time really well. This is the age of science, not of art.

But Sargent was the best portrait painter of his day. He saw the "inside" of human heads and hearts. He could paint the London art dealer with his French poodle standing beside him and show clearly in the dog's face the good qualities lacking in the dog's owner. That's something.

PAINLEVE will be French Prime Minister. Herriot, lately Prime Minister, will be in the new cabinet, which will include two other Socialists.

Socialism has real power in France and there is real discipline in the Socialist party.

PAINLEVE could not become Prime Minister without the Socialists' consent. And the three Socialists could not enter the new cabinet except with their party's consent. This may explain to angry conservatives

MUNN, ILL, CANCELS HUB BOUT; STRANGLER LEWIS TAKES PLACE

By JACK CONWAY

Strangler Lewis, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion, will take the place of Wayne (Big) Munn against Alex Lunders, Swedish heavyweight, in a finish mat bout, best two falls out of three, at the Boston Arena tonight.

Matchmaker Paul Bowser made the announcement at noon when he received definite information that Munn was confined to his bed in Philadelphia.

An Associated Press dispatch from Philadelphia stated that Munn, who lost his world's championship to Stanislaus Zbyszko last night, had an attack of tonsilitis and was running a temperature of 104.

Lewis arrived in Boston at noon. He was accompanied by Billy Sandow, his manager.

After a conference with Sandow and Lewis, Bowser announced that the former champion would be pitted against Lunders.

Bowser also stated that a part of the proceeds of tonight's show would be donated to Munn.

DUEL OF SOUTHPAWS FEATURE AT WIGWAM

By NICK FLATLEY

Try to convince the Braves that they can't beat Herb Pennock and they'll only laugh at you.

They were so sure of it, getting the latter part of their argument with the Giants today, that the illustrious champions were almost forgotten.

The McGraw aces came east to Boston in the series, expecting to clean up Monday, get a flying start for their fifth successive pennant, but

Champ Marrier With 20 Wives Asks Pardon

Harrisburg, April 16 (I.N.S.).—The heavyweight matrimonial championship of these parts goes, without a contest, to Charles W. Taylor, a seventy-eight-year-old Civil War veteran, who is serving a two-year and ten months' sentence for bigamy.

In an application for clemency urged before the State Board of Pardons today it was disclosed that Taylor had married twenty times during his life, his brides having been drawn from all parts of the country.

His last wife had him arrested two years ago for stealing her traveling bag. His attorneys advance their client's illness as the reason for their petition for mercy.

BANDIT'S WIFE IN NERVOUS STATE AS CASE NEARS END

James E. Walters, the "Lone Wolf," taunted insults and interruptions at District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien today as the prosecutor pleaded with a Suffolk County jury to find him legally sane and guilty as charged in the indictments.

At times serious and pensive, and [illegible] Mr. O'Brien [illegible] "Come back here and I'll bite your throat," Walters shouted once, when a vigorous phrase displeased him.

Again he laughed [illegible] because Mr. O'Brien hadn't pressed [illegible]

REMOVE OBSTACLES TO THEIR WEDDING

The romance of twenty-one-year-old Lillian B. Flagg, of No. 11 Oliver road, Watertown, and Wallace H. Maloney, youthful garage proprietor, of Newton, which appeared to have encountered an insurmountable obstacle will culminate Saturday evening in a wedding.

To keeping couple, whose plans for a secret wedding were wrecked by a technicality in the marriage laws and their parents' objections, have smoothed out their troubles.

Upon applying at Newton City Hall for a license, they were informed that since Maloney, who is the same age as his fiancee, had not attained his majority he must secure the consent of his parents. This seemed impossible in view of religious differences, but was obtained when the couple threatened to elope.

In consequence they will be married by the Rev. Fr. Slattery of the Church of Our Lady, Newton.

FULLER IN DEADLOCK DEFIES HOUSE 'CLUB'

Governor Fuller and the House became deadlocked today on the blue sky fight, staged on Beacon Hill for years over a bill to allow savings banks to invest up to 10 per cent of their deposits in railroad equipment bonds.

Disregarding the Governor's ultimatum that he will sign no such measure bill until the lower house acted on [illegible] yeas, the House refused overwhelmingly to reconsider its action of yesterday in putting off the vote until Tuesday.

The vote taken on the roll of the roll showed 141 members against and 48 for reconsideration.

Today's action by the House followed the reading of a confidential note from Governor Fuller to Speaker Hill by Representative Martin Hays of Brighton, in advance of

WAR CRIPPLE TRIES TO KILL CAILLAUX

Paris, April 16.—Antoine Dansein, a war cripple, was arrested today in front of the Ministry of Foreign Affaries, where M. Painleve has been holding conferences with M. Caillaux and others for the formation of a new cabinet.

Dansein told the police that he had gone there "to kill Caillaux, who is an assassin."

Paris, April 16 A.P.).—The Painleve-Caillaux-Briand ministerial combination, which popped to the surface suddenly to the exclusion of the proposed Painleve-Herriot cabinet, is having difficulty.

It was declared today M.M. Briand and Caillaux were far from being agreed on the essentials of a ministerial program, while M. Painleve had insisted he would abandon his efforts to form a ministry if he could not have the cooperation of both Caillaux and Briand. Shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon M. Painleve reported progress to President Doumergue but fixed no time when he would give his final answer to the President, on the success or failure of his efforts to organize a ministry.

GAS FATAL TO THREE IN FALL RIVER HOME

Fall River, April 16.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Talbot, each [illegible] five years old, of No. 403 Snell street, and their five-year-old son, Henry, were found dead in their bed [illegible] with three cocks of a gas stove turned on full force.

The bodies were discovered by neighbors who entered the tenement after smelling gas.

Medical Examiner William H. Blanchette pronounced the deaths accidental.

A suicide pact was suspected at first, but after a police investigation Medical Examiner Blanchette gave it as his official verdict that the three deaths were the result of an accident.

The Talbot home is at No. 403 Snell street.

STOP STREET TRAFFIC AT SEC. WEEKS' HOME

Washington, April 16 (I.N.S.).—Street traffic around the home of Secretary of War Weeks, in upper Sixteenth street, was diverted today, giving rise to reports that the illness had taken a suddenly serious turn. It was said that Mr. Weeks had passed a restful night and that traffic diversion was ordered because his sleep had been disturbed.

The Secretary suffered a stroke of thrombosis ten weeks ago, which partially paralyzed his left side.

WOLF WILD AS PROSECUTOR REVIEWS HIS CRIMES TO JURY

PRISONER HAS CHANGED TO A FOX, AND WILL SOON CHANGE TO A CUR, SAYS O'BRIEN

ing. And you will shortly see him as a cur."

It was then that the prisoner shouted, "Come back here and I'll bite your throat off."

Justice Bishop in his charge was careful to explain to the jury that if Walters was found guilty he could be committed to a hospital for the criminally insane for life; while if he was found not guilty by reason of insanity, he could be remitted to Bridgewater, but not for a definite term; only until he was cured.

In treating that phase of the case, Mr. O'Brien, a few minutes earlier, had said: "You remember he was in the insanity ward at Bellevue only eleven days. Is it that he may be sent to Bridgewater and be discharged in eleven days as cured? It is for you to say."

SEES HUSBAND EVERY DAY.

Although there were many women trying to get into the courtroom, only three were able to get seats, Mrs. Walters, the defendant's wife, was one.

Mrs. Walters revealed today that she sees her husband every day after court is adjourned. She visits him in the pen.

The Lone Wolf entered the courtroom with a burst of speech. He could be heard before he could be seen.

"What are you fellows being paid for?" he demanded truculently of the court officers who led him in. They were trying to quiet him.

TURNS FIRE ON O'BRIEN.

"Don't be trying to tell me what to do," he continued. "There's a guy up there who will tell you what to do." He pointed at Judge Bishop.

Walters looked over at the reporters' bench, and said "well, hello there. There you all are."

His greeting to District Attorney O'Brien was: "Why did you give orders to bar my wife from the courtroom? Is you afraid she is being a prisoner up here whom you told to testify against me? That's the way you further your ends."

Mr. O'Brien said later that he had not ordered the prisoner's wife barred from the courtroom.

Immediately the prosecutor began his argument to the jury. He drowned out the Walters tirade.

REVIEWS THE CHARGES.

He began by referring to the trial as "an unpleasant ordeal." He cited the charges against Walters as follows:

Two indictments for carrying a dangerous weapon, and two indictments for armed robbery with intent to kill or maim if resisted, on three different women.

"There is no dispute here as to the facts," he said. "The prisoner admits that on Jan. 5 he entered the apartment of Bessie Kelley, held her up with a gun and robbed her.

"He admits that on Jan. 21 he entered the premises of Mrs. Prescott and her niece, Catherine DeVol and committed there acts of robbery and attacked one of the women.

ONLY ONE LOOPHOLE.

"On February 5 he went to the apartment of Miss Martha Briggs, attacked her with a gun and stole her property.

"His confession leaves only one available defence; that at the time of these acts he was not mentally responsible.

"It is for you to say whether he is responsible for his atrocious and heinous acts."

Walters interrupted to say "Just let me bring that prisoner up here. You've only got an hour to talk, anyway."

Mr. O'Brien continued: "The crime with which he is charged are almost as heinous as any known to the law. The penalty for these crimes is life imprisonment or any term of years. If he is found guilty the judge may send him prison for life or any term.

PRISONER IS EXCITED.

"If he is found not guilty by reason of insanity he goes to Bridgewater Insane Hospital and remains there until the doctors pronounce him cured."

Walters shouted from his cage, "I am sane. I can write about it."

Walters seemed wildly excited and hardly able to contain himself. His face moved constantly.

"Why not send me to the hospital?" the prisoner demanded, before the prosecutor had a chance to resume.

Mr. O'Brien continued: "You have heard him call witnesses liars."

"If I had money," Walters shouted, "I would be in a hospital. When a dog is hurt, where do they take him?"

CHANGED TO FOX.

"Look at this man," said the prosecutor. "The Lone Wolf has changed to a fox. And you will see him become a cur."

O'Brien was nettled. His voice rose. Walters chimed in:

"Come back here and I'll bite your throat off."

Mr. O'Brien was able to resume. "He gives various reasons," he said, "for entering these apartments. But in every case he robbed the women and he attacked them. In the DeVoll apartment, he ordered them to bed, he tied and gagged them and he attacked one of those women.

KNEW WHAT HE WAS DOING.

"What about poor Miss Briggs? He said he went there to watch her reactions to what he said and did. But did he watch her face? No, he gagged her and put her in a chair with her face to the wall. He told Miss Kelley and Mrs. Prescott he knew he would get fifteen or twenty years if caught."

Walters interrupted to shout, "Fifty years, I said."

"Five alienists call him sane and legally responsible. Two doctors say he was insane when he committed his acts. It is for you to say what you think.

"Remember that Dr. Briggs said Walters preferred Bridgewater to pleading guilty. Remember he was in Bellevue Hospital, in the insanity ward, for only eleven days. Suppose he goes to Bridgewater and his insane period terminated in eleven days."

The prosecutor laughed and said, "He wants to go down there and scratch the ground a little, and then get free.

"That's a damn lie," Walters shouted. He pointed at Dr. Briggs. "You're the one who said that," he accused.

He was on his feet, but was pulled back into his seat by court officers.

"Why don't you question me?" the defendant asked.

"You have observed his faking in the courtroom?" Mr. O'Brien continued.

"Come here and I'll spit in your eye," the prisoner cried.

"He's a faking malingerer," cried the prosecutor. He and the man he was prosecuting were still talking.

HAS STUDIED INSANE PERSONS

"As the crowning episode in his career," said Mr. O'Brien, "he wanted me to cross-examine him. Why should I cross-examine him?"

Walters interrupted. "You shouldn't, because you haven't got the brains of a gnat."

Mr. O'Brien continued. "He confessed his crimes. I was not going to give him a chance to make a spectacle of a court of justice. The fox was an employe at an insane hospital where he had an opportunity to observe patients.

"This fox saw all the different types of insane persons and now he gives you all the symptoms in one person. No wonder the defense alienists were unable to classify his type of insanity.

"The fate had five experts who say he is sane now and in their opinion was sane when he committed his crimes.

"The defense offered two who say he was in an insane period when he did these crimes.

Walters broke in with: "If I had money, I would have had twenty doctors."

PUBLIC SECURITY AT STAKE.

O'Brien, smiling, said: "I suggest you note his lack of attention, his disjointed remarks. Here are the guns he used. Here are the stockings he used for gags. Here is the gag steeped with Miss Briggs' blood. You will have them in the jury room with you.

"Announce to the wives, mothers and sisters in Cd community that no outrager of women when caught red-handed, is going to hide behind the shield of insanity! The public security is at stake.

BOTH TALKING AT ONCE.

"If the verdict is guilty, the community can feel its agencies of government are functioning as they should and the community will feel safe from the outrageous acts of abnormal personalities, such as this man is."

At times, during the district attorney's argument, there was a rising crescendo of noise in the courtroom, with O'Brien raising his voice to emphasize the heinousness of the crimes, and the "Wolf" echoing his tone and matching phrase for phrase with words of his own.

When the "Wolf" was brought into the courtroom just before the charge to the jury by Judge Ellis E. Bishop, he was very much subdued, however.

WOLF'S WIFE NERVOUS.

His counsel cautioned him very sternly not to interrupt the judge.

As the proceedings drew to a close, Walters' eighteen-year-old bride lost he rappearance of calm and displayed signs of increasing nervousness. She bit her nails incessantly, moved he rhands restlessly over her face and endeavored in vain to find a comfortable resting place for her chin in her hand.

Walters' only interruption of the judge was to exclaim a few times, but in a low voice, while he pointed at Dr. Briggs: "There's the man that lied. I object to that man over there."

Judge Bishop, in his charge, said in part:

"A man with a psychopathic personality is not insane as I understand it. But you must decide how you understand it.

DEFENCE THEORY SHOWN.

"If this man's act in the various apartments were the results of outbreaks or paroxysms of a mind diseased, so that it overwhelmed his reason, then he is not to be considered responsible or accountable.

"The plea of an irresistible impluse is a good defense, even if he knew the act was wrong, but the impulse must spring fro ma diseased mind and not from ordinary passion such as lust, anger or revenge, and mere infirority of intellect is not a good defense.

"If he has knowledge and consciousness that the fact he is doing is wrong and criminal and will subject him to punishment, and if he is not over-borne by an impulse springing from mind diseased, he is guilty.

SANCTION GRANTED GIRLS FOR CHANNEL SWIM

New York, April 17—Sanction for two American women to attempt to swim the English Channel this Summer was given tonight by the Woman's Swimming Association, which approved a request by Miss Gertrude Ederle and Miss Helen Wainwright to make the effort. Authorization was given the club manager to arrange for the trip.

Miss Ederle, who has long planned to try the channel swim, holds most of the freestyle records for her sex, while Miss Wainwright ranks among the country's best mermaids. Both swimmers announced they would begin training immediately in order to sail for England in June.

HUB HONEYMOONERS ON HIGH SEAS

Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Voeleker of Boston were the envy of all aboard the Steamship Martha Washington when the liner pulled out of Boston for Mediterranean ports. They had been married only that day and won't return till June.

MORGAN SCION BATTLES WITH CAMERA MAN

Fernandina, Fla., April 16.—Husky young scions of America's oldest and wealthiest families played the roles of "bouncers" of "undesirables" at the wedding of Miss Nancy Carnegie of Boston and Manchester, Mass., to James Stillman Rockefeller, grandnephew of the oil magnate on Cumberland Island, six miles off the coast here.

The "undesirables" were newspapermen and photographers, the latter in particular. When a battery of camera men landed on the island and attempted to approach the beautiful Winter home of Andrew Carnegie, where the ceremony was performed, the young men of the seventy-five or more guests quickly got into action.

Undismayed by the millions and the numbers that opposed them, however, the news gatherers stood their ground.

WRESTLE ON LAWN.

Young H. F. Morgan of the New York family bore down on the staff photographer of an Atlanta newspaper who had selected a position where he could focus his lens on the front porch of the mansion for the union of two of the wealthiest families of the country.

There was a sharp tussle. Morgan tried to wrest the camera from its owner. The fiery little Southerner fought like a wildcat hanging on to the box.

Just as it seemed that a general melee would ensue older men of the wedding party intervened. Their more diplomatic methods prevailed and the newspaper men withdrew.

COMING TO BOSTON.

The ceremonies were short and simple, and witnessed by about seventy-five relatives and close friends of the bride and bridegroom.

Among the guests were: Mrs. William G. Rockefeller of New York, mother of the bridegroom; Harry S. Morgan of New York, a grandson of J. P. Morgan, and his wife; and Mrs. Maria Weld and her daughter, Anne, of Boston.

The bride and bridegroom remained on Cumberland Island, choosing to escape the buttery of reporters, men and newspapermen whom they knew were awaiting them at Fernandina. It was reported at Fernandina that they will leave the island today on their honeymoon and that they would go to Boston on a special train.

The new Mrs. Rockefeller is a sister of Mrs. Phineas Sprague Pinckney, 3d, of Mt. Vernon street, who, previous to her marriage in the fall of last year, was Miss Lucy C. Carnegie. Both she and Mrs. Sprague are members of the Junior League in Boston and of the Vincent Club.

Mr. Rockefeller is a Yale man and the son of William G. Rockefeller, who died in November, 1922. His grandfather, William Rockefeller, was a brother of John D. Rockefeller.

STUDENTS AT MUNICIPAL GYMS DO THEIR STUNTS

Matron and maid, bearded patriarch and beardless youth, vied in presenting, at the Boston Arena, an unusual demonstration of the popularity of the Boston municipal gymnasiums.

There were more than 2,000 participants in the demonstration, while an audience of more than 4,000 cheered the men, women and children as they went through their exercises with a precision and rhythm that was beautiful to behold.

HARVARD LIBERALS RAP B. U. FACULTY

The Harvard Liberal Club fasted a statement vigorously condemning the recent action of Boston University officials in suppressing an issue of the Bean Pot, a student publication at B. U., which had published matter which offended the Boston University dean. Copies of the resolution were sent to Dean Lord of Boston University and to Miss Perkins of Winthrop, the young lady who was forced to resign her editorship of the Bean-Pot as a result of Dean Lord's action.

BOLSHEVISTS BACK OF ATTACK ON KING BORIS

London, April 16 (Universal Cable).—That the recent attack on King Boris was planned by Bolsheviste in Vienna was learned from London diplomatic sources today.

Efforts were made by the Bulgarian government to make it appear that the attack was the work of thieves who were ignorant of the identity of the King and were out for plunder alone.

NEW POSTAL RATES CAUSING CONFUSION

Post office workers throughout the Boston district had their troubles when the new postal rates carrying substantial increases on certain classes of mail, went into effect.

Owing to the fact that many patrons do not yet understand that all private postcards must bear a two-cent stamp instead of the one-cent, there was much delay.

Michigan Solons Would Restore Whipping Post

Lansing, Mich., April 16.—Two threats of establishment of a legal status of the whipping post in Michigan were made in the State Senate here. George M. Condon, attorney, announced he was having a bill drawn allowing judges to sentence wife beaters to a certain number of lashes with the knout.

Senator Arthur E. Woods is having a bill drawn which would prescribe ten lashes per year for each year sentenced upon conviction of robbery armed.

'SPEED DEMON' JAILED AT CONCORD

L. Toohig and W. J. Bonner of Charlestown appeared at the school armed with a warrant and a writ of habeas corpus and returned Sheehan to Charlestown.

TRIAL ADJOURNED.

He was arraigned at a special session before Judge Charles J. Sullivan and remanded pending a continuance of the case until April 11.

When his case was called again on that date, Sheehan failed to appear and the trial was again adjourned for one week.

Meanwhile, the decision to transfer the boy from the Shirley school was made by the board of trustees.

The transfer was made secretly and Sheehan was booked at the State institution, where he will be assigned to work today.

CRIPPLED BY MOUNTAINS, RETURNS AS FIRE GUARD

Denver, Col., April 16.—Minus every finger except one, and additionally handicapped by the loss of half his toes, Walter E. Kiener, Swiss mountain climber, plans to return to the mountains that left him scarred for life.

Kiener lost the fingers and toes as a result of a mid-Winter ascent of Long's Peak, which ended fatally for his companion, Miss Agnes M. Vaile, Denver business woman.

On his release from the hospital, Kiener announced that he had taken a job as fire lookout with the forest service in Estes Park, the scene of the fatal mountain ascent. He will assume his new job next June.

TWO MEN ARE HELD IN DARTMOUTH BRIBE CASE

New Bedford, April 16.—After trial in the Third District Court, on charges that they attempted to bribe citizens of Dartmouth to vote for a proposed exchange of land between the West Shore Trust Company and the Town of Dartmouth, George L. Bradshaw, forty years old, and Henri Arsenault, forty-seven, both of North Dartmouth, were adjudged probably guilty and held in $500 each for the June term of the Superior Court in this city.

BROCKTON MAN HELD IN ROBBERY OF STORE

Albert Tibbets of Brockton was arrested by Special Officers O'Neil and DiSessa on an indictment warrant charging him with breaking and entering the haberdashery of Charles George, No. 1521 Washington street, South End, and looting it. The police say Tibbets confessed, and that they recovered all the loot in his room in the building in which the store is located. Elmer Jones, janitor of the building, was convicted of complicity in the robbery, the police say, and sentenced to one year in jail.

Father and Son to Pay Death Penalty

Raleigh, N. C., April 16.—Father and son—C. W. and Elmer Stewart—must die in the electric chair within a few minutes of each other on Friday morning for the murder of two prohibition agents last September.

Governor McLean ... to commute the death sentences.

The dry agents, Leon ... and Sam Lilly, were ambushed by the Stewarts and their bodies riddled with bullets.

Jailed Man Wants Back $5 He Paid to Buy Wife

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 16.—John Wanda of Stoneco discovered today that a man can't buy another man's wife in this State. Now he wants his $5 back, with interest.

In the meantime, Wanda will serve six months in jail.

Last Fall he says he paid Waldislaw Hoforowski a five-spot for the latter's wife. The wife, woman-like, was contrary. So Wanda went to board with her and her husband.

"But finally Hoforowski got jealous," says Wanda, "and I threw him out."

FULLER, HOUSE, DEADLOCKED OVER BILL

Hays' original motion for postponement.

Hays quoted the Governor as saying he had would sign a bill if it had incorporated in it two safeguards which were enumerated.

Hays had intimated to the House, when making his original motion, that the Governor was willing to compromise, an intimation which later drew from Governor Fuller, the statement that he would "not stand for any club being held over his head."

House leaders made no secret of their distrust of the Governor. They feared if they sustained the veto no new bill could be introduced because of the danger of its being thrown out on a point of order.

They were unwilling to take the chance of the Governor's reviving the bill through a special message.

The fight at today's session was started by Representative Elijah Adlow of Boston, who, with a plea for harmony, moved for reconsideration.

Representative Hays, William Thomas, House chairman of the committee on banks and banking, and Francis Cassidy of Webster, opposed reconsideration. Speaker Hull limiting debate to three minutes.

It was during the three minutes that Hays defended his action of yesterday by reading the Governor's note, from memory. Thomas stated it was his belief that a conference committee could get together on a bill satisfactory to the chief executive by Tuesday.

Representative Cassidy, speaking along the same lines as Thomas, yielded to Adlow long enough to be asked:

"How can this bill be perfected under the rules?"

Cassidy admitted that it couldn't be perfected but said he hoped it could be drafted and acted upon before the vote on the veto was taken.

RHODE ISLAND STUDIES COMMERCIAL FLYING

Providence, R. I., April 16.—Rhode Island's first study of aviation on a practical basis will be made by a commission under authority contained in a Senate resolution signed today by Governor Pothier.

The commission will study landing sites available in the state, and will recommend to the legislature the purchase of a suitable site for the establishment of an air-port.

TODAY

the few pleasant words said about Herriot by President Coolidge. The President is acquainted with French politics.

BERNARD SHAW says the soul isn't a human institution exclusively, and dogs, or even beetles, may have souls. G. K. Chesterton, deeply religious and a Roman Catholic, objects to that view. He doesn't think that the highly intelligent wolf, humbly listening to the preachings of St. Francis, had a soul to save, adds: "We do not know that the hyena desires eternal life."

Many who have found this life unsatisfactory will say: "Intelligent hyena, he knows when he has had enough."

VON HINDENBURG, fine old fighting general of the Hohenzollern days, but a poor head for a German republic, is running as the Hohenzollern candidate. The idea is that he will keep "devotion to the Kaiser alive until the Kaiser's grandson is old enough to take the throne."

Hindenburg requested the Kaiser to free him from his oath of loyalty to the Imperial flag that he might run for President of the German Republic without perjuring himself. He was freed, of course, and is now running to keep the old Hohenzollern throne warm for the son of the Crown Prince.

IF VON HINDENBURG should be elected President, which seems unlikely, conditions would change in Germany.

The German Republic, like the United States Republic, is a democracy managed by industrial and financial intelligence for the general welfare, and especially for industrial and financial welfare.

ANY EFFORT to bring back a grandson of the "all highest" would change conditions, perhaps disastrously.

The Hohenzollerns well know that there is no hope for the former Kaiser or his son, both of them having been so conspicuous in the looting of the war, neither of them having got a scratch in the process.

Just why a grandson should be better than the former Kaiser himself is hard to understand.

Donald Lowrie's Story to Appear in American

WHAT HAPPENED TO DONALD LOWRIE, who seems to have lost his long and patient battle for freedom?

He is "back in prison" down in the Arizona penitentiary, dying of consumption, and in his last memoirs trying to tell a wondering world how it all happened.

And the BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN is going to answer this absorbing question by printing Donald Lowrie's own confession, beginning next Tuesday.

3 GIRLS USE SHEET ROPE TO ESCAPE

Mystery of Lost Boston Bridegroom Deepens

THREE GIRL FUGITIVES CAPTURED

Tewksbury Inmates Slide to Freedom on Sheet; Caught on Reaching Boston

Three young girls, State wards at the State Infirmary at Tewksbury, were taken into custody in Atlantic avenue, near Rowe's Wharf by Sergeant Gilman of Station 2, today, after they had escaped from the institution in the night and made their way to Boston in some manner not yet learned by police or officials of the infirmary.

The girls escaped by fashioning bed sheets into a rope and climbing down from a second story window. They had no difficulty in leaving the grounds of the infirmary, there being no wall surrounding them. The street cars leaving for Boston were watched after the escape of the girls was discovered and Dr. George Peirce, assistant superintendent of the institution, said today they must have been given a lift into Boston by some passing motorist.

The institution is not a reformatory in any sense, Dr. Peirce said, in explaining that the girls there are given all possible freedom to do as they wish. Most of the inmates are classified as defective delinquents.

The girls who have been returned to the institution are: Eva Stanley, seventeen years old, of Wenham; Yeona Morrissette, fifteen, and Lillian Davidson, fifteen, both of New Bedford.

ALL THREE ARE HAPPY OVER REUNION

Joy radiates from the faces of Benjamine Yaffe, astride his mount; Francis, his big brother, and the pony, for they have been reunited after Shetland wandered from the Yaffe home, No. 79 Glenway street, Dorchester.

FAILED TO APPEAR AT WEDDING

Reported Victim in Auto Accident; Hospitals Visited in Vain

Miss Katherine Gahan of Holyoke is wondering today just when she will hear again from Stephen T. Kett, twenty-six-year-old salesman, who lives at No. 199 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, and who was to have married Katherine in Holyoke.

At her home Miss Gahan is prostrated over the disappearance of her fiance, who she believed was injured in an automobile accident on Tuesday night, while en route from Boston to her home to rehearse for the nuptials.

DOUBLE WEDDING

Kett, according to the report which reached Miss Gahan, had been so severely injured that he was taken to the home of a sister in Worcester. The names of two companions who were supposed to be injured in the same accident were also given Miss Gahan.

The young Holyoke girl had planned to be married at a double wedding, her sister, Miss Winifred and Mr. Lee Stanton, being the other principals.

Stanton, the other bridegroom, managed to reach the scene of the wedding without accident and was duly married, while Katherine Gahan remained in her room, awaiting some word from her fiance regarding his injuries and how soon he would likely be able to be about.

NO TRACE OF KETT

No word came. The friends of the couple made inquiry at the home of Kett's sister in Worcester and were surprised to learn that not only was the Boston man not an invalid there, but his sister had heard nothing of an accident and knew nothing of her brother's whereabouts.

SHOOTS WIFE AS SHE HOLDS BABE IN ARMS

Worcester, April 16.—Police are searching for Frank Amato, who, a few hours after being escorted from the home of his father-in-law, Michael Valenti, of No. 153 Shrewsbury street, returned with a pistol and shot his wife, Mrs. Julia Amato, and her father in the back. Mrs. Amato was holding her four-months-old son in her arms when felled by her husband's bullet. She and her father are in a serious condition at the City Hospital.

Mrs. Amato was recently granted separate support and has not been living with her husband for about four months. Since then Amato is said to have called at the Valenti home, several times, showering his wife with abuse and demanding the return of some furniture which he claimed was his.

PIONEER CYCLIST HURT WHEN AUTO HITS BIKE

Edward A. Freeman, fifty-seven years old, chairman of the Winthrop Board of Assessors, who is a pioneer bicycle rider, was severely injured today when an automobile was in collision with the bicycle he was riding on Pleasant Park road, Winthrop.

Mr. Freeman was thrown to the ground, sustaining multiple bruises and possible concussion of the brain. He was taken to his home, No. 233 Winthrop street, and treated by Dr. O. E. Johnson.

The automobile was operated by Louis Rice of Coral avenue, Winthrop.

Mr. Freeman is said to have been a purchaser of one of the first consignment o freecycles to come to this country, and has been riding ever since.

Daylight Saving Time Effective April 26

Effective 2:00 a. m., Sunday, April 26, and continuing until 2:00 a. m., Sunday, September 27, 1925, the train schedules of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and Central New England railway will be changed to conform to the daylight saving law of Massachusetts and daylight saving ordinances of the city of New York and many other cities through which it operates.

The town of Warwick, R. I., however, will be seven days ahead of the railroad, having declared daylight saving effective on April 19.

MISS VIOLA E. KIMPEL BRIDE OF B. H. BOWEN

Miss Viola E. Kimpel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kimpel, of No. 73 West Cottage street, Roxbury, married Franklin Gerald Bowen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Bowen, of No. 61 Sydney street, Dorchester, in Bethany Baptist Church, Roxbury, today. Rev. Daniel Lyman officiated.

The bride is a graduate of the Practical Arts School. Mr. Bowen served with the Y. D. Division and is connected with the John Hancock Life Insurance Co.

George Kimpel, brother of the bride, was best man. Miss Florence Kimpel, a sister, was maid of honor. Her niece, Miss Helen Wilkins, was ring bearer and flower girl. Another sister, Mrs. Mae Wilkins, played the wedding march.

The bridesmaids included the Misses Hazel Mock, Dorothy Lyman, Alice Tuck and Ethel Briggs. Lawrence Martin, Everett Carlisle, John Kimpel and Louis Kimpel acted as ushers.

After a honeymoon in the South, Mr. and Mrs. Bowen will live at No. 57 Newland road, Arlington Heights.

FRISKY PONY PUTS GLOOM TO ROUT

The pall of gloom that has enveloped the home of Julius Yaffe, No. 79 Glenway street, Dorchester, was lifted today when the Shetland pony pet of the two Yaffe boys was restored to them.

For two years the pony has been the pal and playmate of Benjamin Yaffe, ten years old, and his thirteen-year-old brother, Francis. Monday morning it disappeared, and the boys were inconsolable.

Tuesday night one of the employes of the Boulevard stable at Grove Hall found the pony wandering about the streets and took charge of it, notifying the police. They in turn communicated with Mr. Yaffe and the pony was today back with his playmates.

HUB MERCHANT HAS 2 HELD IN CREDIT PLOT

As a result of a complaint by Jacob Schneider, of the Standard Neckwear Company of Boston and others, William Gross and Joseph Greenberg, both of New York city, are under arrest in New Haven on technical charges.

The police claim they are "credit crooks" implicated in a conspiracy to defraud business concerns in several cities. It is charged that the men opened an office in New Haven under the name of the New York Novelty Company, and received goods from responsible houses under false pretences.

There is another concern of the same name in New Haven, and it is claimed that merchants shipped goods to Gross and Greenberg under the impression that they were going to the established concern.

Some of the goods was recovered.

ACQUIT PHALANX CLUB HEADS OF RUM CHARGE

After a trial of a week, a jury in Suffolk Superior Criminal Court today brought in a verdict of not guilty in the cases of six officials of the Phalanx Club, better known as the Black and White Club, who were charged with violation of the liquor laws.

A similar verdict was returned a short time ago in the case of the Lambs' Club of the Back Bay, both having been prosecuted as a result of investigations made by the Watch and Ward Society.

The defendants in the Phalanx Club case were C. F. Kleeblatt, George Robinson, John Lewis, Louis Bennett, Lincoln C. Pope and Robert Sawyer.

BABY FINDS MOTHER'S BODY AFTER SUICIDE

Winchester, N. H., April 16.—Mrs. May Munroe, wife of Clifford E. Munroe, committed suicide by shooting herself twice with a pistol just below the heart.

She was found dead across her bed by her husband, who was notified of the act by his three-year-old daughter.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Munroe worked in the telephone exchange. Four children, the youngest three and the oldest about nine, survive.

She had been despondent at times since the death of her father last Fall.

SLAYS GIRL IN JEALOUS RAGE, SHOOTS SELF

New York, April 16.—Miss Golda Stutz, nineteen, was shot dead by her sweetheart, Alexander Takorian, a designer in the plant of the Art Textile Corporation at No. 422 East Fifty-ninth street, today.

Jealousy was said by police to have caused the tragedy.

Takorian fired to kill crashed Arabella, foremost fine point, as it then attempted to kill himself.

He inserted one cartridge and part of the third of an automatic pistol at his sweetheart and confessed.

Available was shot in the neck and cheek, but not seriously hurt. Takorian then shot himself twice in the head. He may recover, however.

FIXING 'CAPT. PARKER' FOR PATRIOTS' DAY

With the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Lexington only a few days away, hurried changes are being made in the base of the Captain Parker on Lexington common as a result of a recent discovery.

It was found that one of the feet of the heroic figure is obscured by a patch of stone on the boulder that forms the base of the statue due to carelessness in making changes several years ago.

At that time the original base cracked and was replaced. Recently someone discovered that the new base obscures the right foot of the statue and the sculptor, Henry Kitson, was notified.

Mr. Kitson went to Lexington and found that a slope in the present boulder is responsible for the obstruction. He at once ordered changes made which will restore the famous statue to its original lines and Bartlett Harrington is at work making the necessary change.

After the Patriot's Day celebration the statue will be provided an entirely new boulder for a base.

Governor Alvan T. Fuller will be the principal speaker at the exercises Monday, commemorating the 150th anniversary of the battle of Lexington.

The speech at 3:30 on the battle green, following the Governor's review of the big Patriot's Day parade, will be broadcast by WNAC, the Shepard Stores, Boston.

The Governor is expected to be in Lexington in time to see the finish of the rides from Boston of "Paul Revere" and "William Dawes."

On Sunday night he and Mrs. Fuller will attend the literary exercises in the Lexington Town Hall, which will mark the real opening of the celebration. The exercises will be under the auspices of the Lexington Historical Society.

A feature of the night celebrations on Sunday and Monday will be the illumination of the statue of the Minute Man, which surrounds the Hayes Memorial Fountain at the end of the battle green.

Five large flood lights will illuminate the statue and cast a daylight glow on the green, which will be decorated with the flags of all the states in the Union. This will be the first time the statue has ever been illuminated.

The traffic and large crowds expected in Lexington for the celebration will be handled by the local and state police and 150 officers from Boston, under the direction of Captain Hodge. It is significant of the times that this large number of traffic policemen will be needed, whereas during the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary, in 1825, only 80 Boston officers were asked for.

Persons planning to attend the celebration are being advised to make the trip to Lexington by train, as automobiles will not be allowed to park near the center.

There will be four special trains for Lexington on Monday, the first at 12:15 and the others at 8:45, 9:00 and 6:55 p. m.

FEAR MOTHER WHO POISONED FOUR DYING

Mrs. Cunningham Collapses in Cell; Killed Children Because of "Love"

Connersville, Ind., April 16.—Mrs. Anna Cunningham, 47, the mother who fed her children arsenic sandwiches that they might "join their father in heaven," may herself be suffering—perhaps dying—from arsenic poisoning. This was the belief of authorities here today as the woman collapsed in her cell again.

Despite her condition, authorities here ordered court convened at her bedside and she was to be arraigned on a murder charge.

In the presence of her seventeen-year-old daughter, Mae, the woman calmly admitted that she had murdered three of her children with arsenic.

Mrs. Cunningham narrated the account of the killings with little show of emotion.

"But I didn't try to do away with you, Mae," she told her daughter. "And I didn't kill your father or your brother, Harry. The other three I murdered and I poisoned David, too.

"I'll tell you why I did it. I did it because I loved them. I killed first the one I loved best—Isabelle. I mixed some arsenic with the butter and spread it on her bread.

"I'll tell you why I didn't try to poison you. It was because I didn't love you enough. I didn't care whether I had you along in Heaven with me or not.

"Yes, Isabelle was the first to go. I don't know why the poison didn't work on me, but it didn't. Anyway, I knew I had Isabelle across on the other side—waiting there in heaven for me and the others.

"Charles was next."

"I killed him a year after I sent Isabelle away. I said to myself: 'Isabelle must be lonely up there. Charles and I will go to meet her.' So I put arsenic in the butter again and spread it on Charles' bread, and I ate it myself as I had before, but all that happened to me was that I got sick."

N. V. A. BENEFIT SOLD OUT; TO DUPLICATE SHOW

The surprisingly generous response of the public in its immediate purchase of every seat for the midnight performance announced for tonight at B. F. Keith's Theatre, as an added feature to the closing days of the National Vaudeville Artists' Week, has compelled the local committee, headed by R. G. Larson and assisted by Victor J. Morris, Al Somerville, J. J. McGuinness, James H. Doyle and C. Wesley Fraser, to utilize the spacious Boston Theatre for a similar purpose and the presentation of the identical bill announced for Keith's.

These two shows will unquestionably record a new event in the commendable history of vaudeville, as it is planned to offer no less than 40 acts.

These performers will be recruited from all the leading vaudeville theatres in this city and neighboring vicinity. The performances at both theatres will begin at 11:15 promptly.

The entire proceeds will go to the N. V. A. fund, which, since its inception, nine years ago, has paid out nearly $1,000,000 to its needy members.

BLIND TO SHOW THEIR WORK IN TEMPLE ISRAEL

Mrs. Hyman Frothman, chairman of the Boston Committee for the Blind, announces that exhibits of weaving, cabinet making, caning of chairs, dictaphone operating, crocheting and other occupations of the blind will be shown on April 22 from 2 to 10 p. m. and on April 23, from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m., in the vestry of Temple Israel under the auspices of the Boston Committee for the Blind and the Massachusetts division of the blind.

There will be on sale such things as embroideries, scarfs, fancy hand bags, rugs, bibs, crocheted and knitted articles, towels, aprons, holders, brooms and mops. Admission to the educational exhibit will be free.

AMERICAN WOMAN TO GIVE STATUE TO SPAIN

Madrid, April 18 (By the Associated Press).—Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey of New York, widow of Charles Cary Rumsey, sculptor and international polo player, has visited Trujillo to select a site for a monument of Francisco Pizarro, conqueror of Peru, which she will present to the city.

The statue was executed for the San Francisco Exposition, and will be cast in bronze in the United States before its presentation.

FAVOR HEALTH EDUCATION IN SCHOOLS

Teachers and Nurses of Tuberculosis Association Confer to Further Plan

Healthy children are happy children and no undernourished child can do justice to himself in his studies or grow to be the best type of citizen.

Schools and teachers realize this more fully than ever before, and the health crusaders are now as important in the school as the three R's, if not just a little more so.

This view of the officials and members of the Boston Tuberculosis Association was expressed at the meeting of the association at Chauncy Hall at which both teachers and nurses were present.

"Youth of this generation is apt to have influence over the adult," said Miss Elizabeth Ross, Superintendent of the Newton Dorcas Nursing Association, in discussing the relation of health to character, "and as the boy is father to the man, adult education must begin in the schools."

Miss Ross described briefly the progress which is being made in this line and told of the interest taken by the children and their pride in their work.

Reaching the pride of the child has been one of the most effective ways of stimulating flagging interest, and the child who was indifferent to his unwashed neck and hands and teeth has been roused to action by the slight of others getting ahead of him in studies and in personal appearance, she said.

Miss Hazel Wedgewood, Director of Nurses of the Boston City Health Department, presided over the meeting and interesting addresses were given by Miss Anna Johnson, Miss Lucinda Boasley and Miss Mary Clifford, Educational Secretary of the Boston Tuberculosis Association.

At the afternoon session Miss Dorothea Billings, Executive Secretary of the Boston Tuberculosis Association; Miss Margaret Waite and Mrs. Zepha Morse were among the speakers.

CHILD ARTISTS HEARD IN TWO CONCERTS

Boy Violinist Delights Symphony Audience; Girl Pianist at Jordan

Last night might be called "children's night," for the musicians, at least as far as the performers are concerned. There were two concerts, and at both, child prodigies furnished the musical fare.

At Symphony Hall, Sammy Kramar, sensational violinist, reputed to be twelve years old, and looking no more in spite of his size, showed mastery of the instrument. In many respects he is a finished performer. There are some things he can do which put many a mature concert violinist in the shade. His technique is excellent. His tone is at times as lovely as that of Heifetz.

Young Kramar's program was that of a mature artist. In fact, most of his elders would hesitate to play a concert consisting of only four long numbers, one of which was the Handel A Major Sonata, and another, Tua Wieniawski D Minor Concerto. Only at the close of the concert did Kramar play shorter pieces in the lighter vein.

At Jordan Hall, Grace Cronin, a child pianist, was turning in what must have been an equally surprising exhibition in a program that was varied and difficult.

HUSBAND SHEWED SNUFF; WIFE GRANTED DIVORCE

Fitchburg, April 16.—The statement that her husband chewed snuff going to bed and then drooled on the pillow won a divorce for Mrs. Bertha E. Hall in Probate Court here. Her charge was cruelty. She was granted a decree nisi by Judge Chamberlain, who stipulated that the decree shall not become absolute for two years. Her husband, William H. Hall, hotel engineer, failed to contest her suit.

LOWRIE TELLS WHY HE'S BACK IN PRISON

and James A. Johnston, former warden of Folsom and San Quentin prisons in California, think of this story appears below.

By THOMAS M. OSBORNE
Former Warden of Sing Sing Penitentiary.

Donald Lowrie's "My Life in Prison" is one of the outstanding books on prison life. Its power and pathos have made it a potent factor in arousing public sentiment against the useless cruelties and the demoralizing methods of the old prison system. Nowhere more than in prison affairs is it necessary to know the truth so that the truth may make us free. Society's only escape from the penalty of its crimes against criminals lies in an understanding of the facts and their results. Donald Lowrie is one of the few who can tell the truth unstintingly and in such a way as to command attention.

By ROBERT B. SIMS
Warden Arizona State Prison

I read Donald Lowrie's "Life in Prison" several years ago. It struck me as a fine piece of work by a man who was telling the truth. It didn't occur to me that he would ever come under any jurisdiction of mine.

Less than half a year ago Donald Lowrie was admitted to the Arizona State prison. It was a shock and a peculiar disappointment to me. I was extremely sorry to see such a man come to grief again.

I found Donald Lowrie a very sick man, how sick we are still unable to judge. He was put at once into the yard for tubercular patients. Here, several weeks ago, he went to work on this other book, trying to explain why he is back within the walls.

By HIRAM W. JOHNSON
United States Senator From California.

I remember well the original book written by Donald Lowrie and how eagerly it was read at the time of its publication. It did a great work in stimulating interest in those whom society has confined and in arousing a better and more humane sentiment concerning prisons. It did more than this. It made many people think much of a subject of which before they had thought little and was a contributing factor of no small consequence in prison reform.

Senator Johnson was Governor of California at the time Lowrie's first book, "My Life in Prison," was published and he initiated the first reforms at Folsom and San Quentin penitentiaries.

By JAMES A. JOHNSTON
Ex-Warden at Folsom and San Quentin

When Donald Lowrie wrote his story of his life in prison he rendered a service to California and the country, for the things he told of his personal experiences and observations in San Quentin aroused his readers from their indifference, and quickened their interest in prisoners as fellow humans deserving more attention than they had been accustomed to giving them, and set in motion organizations of men and women anxious to improve conditions in the prisons.

The story caused thousands to resolt against corporal punishment and the cruelty of the jacket, the hooks in the doors, the tieing up and all the barbarous ways of inflicting pain on prisoners that had been in vogue up to that time in Folsom and San Quentin and elsewhere, considered all right and necessary.

PRIEST WHO ESCAPED ASSASSIN NOW IN JAIL

Leningrad, April 16 (A.P.)—Father Stanislav Ossowski, Polish priest who was one of those to be set exchanged for the two Polish consular officers recently seized while en route to Russia, was sentenced today to six years imprisonment after isolation. He was accused of immoral treatment of girls and employ.

WALES GOES OUT OF WAY TO GREET LONELY EMIR

Nsrin, Nigeria, April 16 (A.P.)—The Prince of Wales arrived here at 8 o'clock this morning and was given a rousing welcome by the natives.

The Prince decided to visit Borin in order to greet the local emir, who is the only great chief in the northern territories unable personally to attend the ceremonies welcoming Wales at Kano.

SHEPHERD INDICTMENT UPHELD; TRIAL SOON

Chicago, April 16 (A.P.)—Willam D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of his foster son, William Nelson McClintock, pleaded not guilty today in Criminal Court. Chief Justice Hopkins overruled a defense motion to quash the indictment.

The State asked for an early trial, but the court said teh date could be fixed by the trial judge when the case comes up.

KLUX LEADER MUST FACE POISON CHARGE

Indianapolis, April 16 (U.N.S.)—D. C. Stephenson, formerly grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana and a prominent figure in state politics, must stand trial on charges of attacking Madge Oberholtzer, 24, who died from self-administered poison. This was the ruling of Judge Jones. A. Collins, counsel for Stephenson's bodyguard, quashed charges contained in two affidavits he faces.

GENERAL MINE STRIKE CALLED IN WEST VIRGINIA

Wheeling, W. Va., April 16.—A call for a general strike of coal miners in the four Panhandle counties of West Virginia was issued today by officers of the Ohio district organization of the United Mine Workers. An exception was made in the strike calls in the mines of the Windsor Power House Coal Company and the Hutchman Coal Company, where injunctions are in force.

SARGENT'S HEART, DOUBLE OF NORMAL, CAUSED DEATH

London, April 16.—Arthur John Singer surprised a death was caused by heart failure due to fatty degeneration of muscles of the heart, following an atheroma of coronary arteries. D. H. Bronte, philologist, testified at a coroner's inquest today after a post mortem examination. H. E. Oswald, the coroner, rendered a verdict of death "from natural causes." The artist's heart weighed 24 ounces, twice the normal weight, the coroner said. He found the heart muscles extremely soft and pliable, with fatty degeneration, general arterial sclerosis, and also indications of chronic Bright's disease.

Mass Celebrated at Fenway Court Chapel in Memory of Mrs. Gardner

Cowley Fathers Officiate at Impressive Ceremony for Boston's Lamented Art Patron

Betty Alden

THE 11TH OF APRIL brought a solemn and picturesque service in memory of the birthday anniversary of that ever picturesque personage of Boston society, the late Mrs. John Lowell Gardner (Isabella Stewart) of Fenway Court.

EVERY LAST detail of the service was arranged just as "Mrs. Jack" expressed it in the remarkable will and testament to which this remarkable woman disposed of her Fenway Court treasure house and her enormous fortune.

COLOR IT NEW WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Beautiful home dyeing and tinting is guaranteed with "Diamond Dyes." Just dip in cold water to tint soft, delicate shades, or boil to dye rich, permanent colors. Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint dainty garments, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, sweaters, stockings, draperies, coverings, hangings, everything new.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods.

AS SHE stipulated, only the Gardner kith and kin may attend this yearly memorial service. And that, of course, includes a coterie of very highly placed Bostonians.

THERE ARE Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jefferson Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Coolidge, the John Gardner Coolidges, the Julian Coolidges and the Archibald Cary Coolidges in the connection.

MRS. William Gordon Means of the former Constance Gardner Means and her uncle, William Gordon Means, Orlando Gardner, Mrs. Augustus Peabody Loring, John L. Gardner and Mrs. John L. Gardner all are included in the smart category, as relatives on the Gardner side.

FENWAY COURT, the nearest of any Mrs. Gardner's many possessions, she took with her many years after the time when she returned from a long European visit following Mr. Gardner's death, and announced that she would set up in the Fens was a large Venetian Palace to house her art collection.

THIS marvelous palace became in time both a famous museum and a home for Mrs. Gardner. She lived in a sumptuous apartment in the Court, maintaining an almost regal isolation and entertaining quietly from time to time.

MRS. GARDNER, herself a "character" in every social sense, loved to rule the hostess to every visiting celebrity of note and renown, of the arts and sciences. Many were the functions at the Court over which she presided as only Mrs. Gardner could.

IT IS QUITE recent history that her will provided for Fenway Court to pass to the possession of the city of Boston as a public museum, administered by a number of trustees of her own choosing.

THE CHAPEL, by the way, is now opened to public view, but in the scene of various services, specially at Christmas and on April 14, as Mrs. Gardner desired and expressed in her will.

CONGRATULATIONS and good wishes are pouring in from every quarter of the globe to the youthful and very charming Princess Bertha Cantacuzene, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Michael Cantacuzene, who married, not so very long ago, the Boston beauty and belle, golden-haired Clarissa Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pelham Curtis.

THE UNION of the lovely Boston girl to the son of an ancient Russian line immediately placed the petite court circles of Cannes and now just and gay, on a widely heralded ceremonial down in the little town of Nahant, where the Curtises had their Summer home.

voting himself to business, their headquarters for a time the palatial home of the Potter Palmers, relatives of the Prince through his wedding, who was Julia Dent Grant.

THE Cantacuzene-Curtis wedding was solemnized only a short while after the bridegroom received his degree from Harvard, where he was studying when his parents left Russia during the revolution and came to America to settle.

PRINCESS Cantacuzene-Speranski is a granddaughter of the famous and well-loved Civil War General, later President of the United States, Ulysses S. Grant. Her parents are Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant and the late Mr. Grant.

IT WAS Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant who introduced the Princess Bertha to society in the Capital City some three years ago, at a large and stately ball for which Mrs. Thomas Walsh was the hostess at her large town establishment in Massachusetts avenue.

THE Russian-American bud wore a quaint frock of the 1830 period, a true copy of the days of crinoline and the straight-across-the-shoulder décolletage, with ankle length skirt and antique lace bertha, her only ornaments some unusually decorative earrings.

LAST SUMMER the Princess Bertha was a guest of her grandmother at Bar Harbor, and figured largely in the ultra smart doings of that smart resort up on the Maine coast. On her homeward journey to Washington she stayed with the Isaac Manns at the North Shore.

THERE ARE—so I hear—no wedding plans at the moment, but whenever and wherever the ceremonial takes place, it will create a wide interest, both in this country and abroad, for the Princess is a charming girl with hosts of friends, and her parents hold high place in the social circles of various world capitals.

NOT A BIT FUNNY

That the wage earners in buying Jeweled Watches receive in many cases watches with only imitation jewels. We knew this was going on for some time. In this same store we have sold over 100,000 watches. There's a reason! When you want a RELIABLE WATCH see us.

HARVARD FELLOWS VOTE TO BUILD NEW CHAPEL

Announcement that President Lowell and the fellows of Harvard have voted to authorize the erection of a new Harvard chapel, preferably as a memorial to Harvard's dead in the World War, was made at University Hall.

The suggestion that the present Appleton Chapel be replaced by a new and more beautiful building was made a month ago by a committee of the board of overseers.

The vote of the president and fellows intimates that funds for the new building are to be expected from graduates and friends of Harvard. If erected, the new building would replace Appleton Chapel, on the condition that the new chapel bear the name Appleton.

TAXPAYER SUES TO PUT FAIMAN IN JAIL

Chicago, April 16.—A suit to force the State's attorney to place Dr. Charles C. Faiman in jail, instead of keeping him in custody in a hotel, is on file today in circuit court. The suit was filed by Eugene L. McGarry, a taxpayer.

Faiman, principal witness against William D. Shepherd, who is charged with the germ slaying of "Hinky" McClintock, his millionaire ward, is also under indictment of the grand jury as shepherd's accomplice, the suit sets forth. While Shepherd is behind cell bars in the county jail, Faiman is being held under guard of four policemen in a hotel, taking his meals in exclusive cafes, "all under heavy expense to the tax payers," the suit continues.

BUILDERS SEEK TO SPEED UP PEACE PACT

Committee of Fourteen Meets to Hurry Vote by Trade Union Men

In an effort to speed up the peace program agreed upon by representatives of the Building Trades unions and the Building Trades Employers' Association, another conference of the committee of fourteen, representing the unions and employers, is taking place today.

The employers are anxious to have the trade unions sign wage agreements covering a three-year period. The union representatives, when they endorsed the proposition, announced that two weeks would be required for the locals to vote on the proposition.

The employers believe the unions can pass on the matter in less time and to reduce this time, if possible, is the object of today's conference.

COURT ASKS SPEEDER'S LICENSE BE REVOKED

Judge Connelly, in fining Prescott R. Cummings of No. 1095 Center street, Newton, for speeding at the rate of 32 miles an hour in Commonwealth avenue, expressed his intention of writing to Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin and asking for the revocation of Cummings' license.

Motor Cycle Officer Donahue testified that Cummings has been in court for auto law violations three times since November.

Amused Ladies

Ray Sinatra (above) and Charles Goldberg of the T. M. Harms music publishing house, who were among the active entertainers at the second party given to the members of the Boston Evening American WNAC Women's Club in the Hearst Building. Mr. Sinatra toyed at the piano, while Mr. Goldberg demonstrated that the manager of a music house also must be able to sing.

PUBLIC TO BE GUESTS AT WEDDING

One of the features of the fifth Annual Home Beautiful and Building Trades Exposition which opens in Mechanics' Building on April 25, will be a wedding performed in the presence of the attending crowds on the evening of April 28.

Robert J. Waugh of Revere and Miss Sarah Monk will be the principals in the marriage and a substantial check will be presented the couple by Chester I. Campbell, general manager of the exposition, while many articles of value will be given by the exhibitors.

Miss Monk is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Monk of No. 10 Hillside avenue, Chelsea, and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Waugh of No. 101 Fenno street, Revere.

Miss Monk is a graduate of the Chelsea schools. She has always taken an active interest in the affair of her church, singing in the choir and teaching and playing the organ in the Sunday School.

Mr. Waugh, who is a graduate of the Revere Evening High School, is head of the filing department of the U. S. Rubber Company. He is a member of Battery L, 241st Coast Artillery, with the rank of sergeant.

Army-Navy Club Rose Day Program Calls for Award of Annual Trophy

Every available airplane, army, navy, National Guard and commercial, which operates from Boston, will be in the air at the same time and fly over the city in squadron formations on May 2, it was announced today by Porter H. Adams, chairman of the Army-Navy Club Rose Day air demonstration committee.

After the air demonstration, which will begin at 11 o'clock, the Army-Navy Club air trophy, awarded each year to the pilot flying the greatest number of hours in the previous calendar year from Boston without injury to property or personnel, will be presented to the winner on Boston Common.

The presentation will be made by Lieutenant William Miller, a disabled war-time flyer. The committee of award includes Professor E. P. Warner, Porter H. Adams of the Municipal Air Board and Daniel Rochford of the Boston Transcript.

The air demonstration committee includes Professor Warner, Captain C. W. Ford, corps area air officer; Lieutenant Robert J. Brown, Jr., commanding the Boston airport; Lieutenant A. E. Jones, army flying instructor for the Massachusetts National Guard; Lieutenant-Commander Noel Davis, commanding the naval reserve air station at Squantum; Lieutenant R. D. Thomas, executive officer at Squantum; Major Charles H. Wesley, commanding the National Guard air service; Major A. L. Richmond, of the reserves, and Lieutenant Gardiner H. Fiske, M. C. U. S. N. G.

Japs Won't Shirk Conquest War, Writer Finds

London, April 16 (I.N.S.)—"Japan does not want war but won't run it."

That is the opinion of Sir Herbert Russell, novelist and naval writer, in a sensational signed article published in the Daily Express today under the headline "War Clouds in the Pacific."

Sir Herbert declared that Japan's naval program amounts to "non-ostentatious preparations for war."

He said Japan must expand and therefore covets part of China, a policy which would be strongly opposed by the United States. Japan's naval plans, he said, "do not suggest unqualified faith in diplomacy."

Sir Herbert said the United States fleet's maneuvers in the Pacific and visit to Australia were "politically an unmistakable demonstration."

Grace of the Mattapan Station Before the Board on Charges of Misconduct

Patrolman James J. Grace of the Mattapan police station went on trial before a board at police headquarters today, charged with conduct unbecoming an officer. He was arrested in a South End lodging house with the wife of Patrolman Carlos Cotton of the same station, the couple being registered under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Grayson.

Detectives in the employ of Cotton testified to trailing the couple twice to the Concord square house, the second time entering with Cotton and officers from the East Dedham street station.

Grace and Mrs. Cotton will appear in court tomorrow for a hearing.

In his own defence, Grace said he and Mrs. Cotton were searching evidence against her husband, whom she suspected of being intimate with another woman, and they went to the Concord square house to talk the matter over.

GIRL, 14, GETS RELIGION, PUTS 3 IN JAIL

Rockville, Md., April 16.—When fourteen-year-old Irene Mellott, sister of the Rev. W. Frank Mellott of Chicago, "got religion" at a Salvation Army meeting in Johnstown eight months ago, she told a story of assault that today is threatening to split lower Maryland politics wide open. Besides, there have been casualties in Irene's own family. Results so far are these:

Jacob Mellott, her father, dead of a broken heart.

Ralph Mellott, her brother, sentenced to the Maryland penitentiary.

Littleton S. Poole, wealthy widower, father of two grown children, and a political power in Montgomery County, sentenced to the Maryland penitentiary for five years.

John A. Garrett, State's attorney, charged with embezzlement because, he says, of the enemies he made while prosecuting the Poole case.

Two policemen fined $100 each for assaulting Poole with a rubber hose in order to obtain a confession from him.

When Irene "saw the light," she confessed that two years ago Poole attacked her while on an automobile ride. Poole was a boarder at her home at the time. Irene also involved her 22-year-old brother Ralph.

Garrett, hearing the story, quizzed the girl and promised to prosecute the men she accused and to protect her from her family, which he claimed was persecuting her.

GRANDMA FINDS X-WORDS ARE REAL FUN

Grandmothers are not too old to obtain pleasure from solving the Boston Evening American daily prize crossword puzzles. One of them in Brunswick, Me., vies with her grandchildren in efforts to win prizes. She obtains much fun thereby.

This woman, Mrs. L. T. Atkinson, in telling of her experiences, writes as follows: "I am writing to thank you for the check of $1 that I received as a reward for solving a daily puzzle. I have a daughter and a granddaughter in one of the girls' of Boston, who are also sending in puzzle solutions and last lines to limericks. We look for each other's names in the daily list of awards.

"I think that No. 46 is the most attractive solution I have sent in yet, and hope that it may win a first prize and surprise my daughter, who thinks only the small prizes get into Maine."

Many persons are sending in solutions for the first time, having become interested in the tournament through relatives and friends. Virginia Harrington of Maple street, Cliftondale, sent her initial solution with the following note:

"I am submitting a solution for your crossword puzzle No. 46 and believe it is the correct solution. It is my first attempt. It is the first I have been able to send in, but I had tried many and also some limericks. Some are rather difficult, but they are a good pastime. I will continue to try and solve them, even though I am never a winner."

Another person who has just entered the tournament is Frank B. Dixon, of Church street, Rockland, who wrote as follows:

"This is my third attempt in solving the interesting cross-word puzzles printed in your paper. If I knew that it was impossible to win a prize I should not be discouraged as the educational value is much more than money received."

Grace B. Macdonald of Franklin, N. H., who has won two $1 prizes wrote as follows:

"I wish to thank your paper for the second check of $1.00 as a prize. Neither is the same place. Your evidently does not apply to you. fair methods of making awards, for it is quite clear that the best solutions take the cash.

"Am still doing this popular daily stunt though have not been sending them in lately."

Carrie W. Almy of Butler avenue, Providence, says here with verse, as follows:

For many, many days,
In many, many ways
I've tried to win your praise.

For as you may surmise,
'Tis not the truth disguise,
I do, for that first prize.

And now this puzzle's done,
I'll was lots and lots of fun;
I hope that I have won.

Important

The cabinets of these machines were slightly imperfect when we received them which accounts for the remarkably low price. We have gone over each cabinet very carefully and finished each to look like new.

The Transaction Which Makes This Price Possible

Since our great sale of Kennedy Model XI Radio Sets, when we sold more than 700 sets in less than a week, we have been trying to persuade the Kennedy Company to build us more of these sets, but have been unable to do so.

They have at last secured for us 250 of these Model XI Sets from their distributors, the cabinets of which have become slightly damaged. These sets, however, are electrically perfect and guaranteed to operate satisfactorily, but due to the imperfections in the cabinets we were able to buy them cheaper and so offer them at this price.

Interesting Features Concerning The Kennedy Model XI

Model XI is a 4-tube Kennedy Receiver, with built-in loud speaker. It is designed to bring in the more powerful broadcasting stations with a volume sufficient to entertain a roomful of guests.

Even with this greatly increased volume, it preserves the same remarkable tone purity that has made Kennedy Receivers famous. Programs are reproduced over the loud speaker with a realism and color that transforms your living room into a concert hall, studio or ballroom.

At This Sale Price 95.00

The Following Equipment

Is Included:

4 Cunningham C-12 Tubes
3 Burgess Dry Cells
67½-Volt Burgess B Battery
1 Pair Phones
1 Plug
1 Complete Antenna

Interesting Features Concerning The Kennedy Model XI

It is easy to tune. With one single dial anyone can bring in dozens of distant stations, one after another. There is an individual dial setting for each station—once you locate a station you can always return to it with ease. Volume is controlled with a second dial.

The cabinet is typically Sheraton, executed in rich mahogany with satinwood and ebony inlay. Sloping panel provides comfort in tuning. Compartments at right and left enclose all accessories.

The circuit used is an exclusive development of Kennedy Engineers. It is fundamentally right and will give satisfactory enjoyment.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Your taste makes you want bananas—your taste is right!

You eat BANANAS because they have such a delicious flavor. Your taste is nature's way of telling you what you should eat.

Ripe bananas are full of nourishment and are easily digested than other fruits.

You can tell when a banana is ripe by the flecks of amber brown that appear on the golden skin. Then the pulp inside is mellow ripe and creamy sweet.

Buy bananas by the dozen, and let them ripen at home. Bananas taste better and are better for you when they are fully ripe.

Fruit Dispatch Co., Boston Div., Long Wharf, Boston, Mass.

Look out! Two winners are coming! The flavor makes boys and girls pals with Kellogg's Corn Flakes.

Put sweet, crisp, golden-toasted Kellogg's Corn Flakes in a bowl with rich milk or cream. Delicious with fresh or preserved fruit. Easy for mother too. No sticky dishes to wash. You'll like it. Get Kellogg's Corn Flakes from your grocer. Ask for Kellogg's at restaurant or hotel.

Oven-fresh ALWAYS
Kellogg's patented wax-sealed inner wrapper preserves the flavor and keeps the flakes crisp. That is one reason Kellogg leads.

Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

Why Kellogg's is always on top!

It's the flavor—marvelous, indescribable that makes Kellogg's Corn Flakes the leading seller among ready-to-eat cereals.

FAMOUS FIRSTS

By Mark Stuyvesant

NEXT to baseball, it can safely be said that the most popular sport in this country is that of billiards. The green clothcovered table with the smooth, colored ivory balls is to be found in many private homes, while special rooms devoted to this game are to be found sprinkled profusely through almost every town and city.

The origin of this game is not known with any degree of definiteness. One legend current is said to be founded on a letter presented to the British Museum, in which it is the invention of this game in a London pawnbroker named William Kew, who lived some time during the thirteenth century.

It appears that this Kew, in addition to being a money lender, also sold cloth. In connection with this latter business a measuring table was necessary for him to use a yard stick. One day, business being slow, knowing nothing in particular to do, Kew took up his yard stick and the three balls, which are the sign still symbol of the pawnbroker, and began to amuse himself by batting them about on his counter. He soon found this pastime so absorbing that he began to perfect a table to make the one ball glance off another.

Attracted Attention.

How a game attracted the attention of his friends and they informally dubbed it "Bill's yard." In time the name was shortened to billiard. It was not so easy to find a name for the yard stick, and it was not long after that it could no longer serve in its new role. It was called after the discoverer of the game—a kew.

It is difficult to tell just where fiction ends and truth begins in this tale, as little much is true. It attributes the origin of the game to England, which is generally conceded, but it bears witness to the fact that it was known before the time of Shakespeare, who refers to it in Anthony and Cleopatra: "Let us to billiards, come, Charmain."

There is a story told about the famous philosopher Herbert Spencer and billiards. He was playing a game of "pill one" with a very expert opponent. Spencer made a shot and missed. His opponent, taking up his cue, made a run of fifty and was out of the first inning.

Whereupon the philosopher, irritated and mild, a little mallee, declared:

"A certain dexterity in games of skill argues a well-balanced mind, but such dexterity as you have shown, sir, convinces me, I fear, of a misspent youth."

One Authority.

His contention is sustained by one authority on billiards, who deplores the fact that it takes a lifetime of devotion and practice to acquire eminence in the apparently simple art of knocking three balls about with a stick. But, fortunately for the devotees of this fascinating game, there is an equal right to be said on the other side. An equally reputable authority declares that there is no more beautifully scientific game than billiards. It requires perfect strategy, an ability to shift and master combinations to fit every new situation. It demands a ready wit, for hesitation in this game is fatal.

In addition, it takes certain physical attributes to attain perfection, namely, a sure eye and a steady hand, a grasp that is at the same time firm, flexible and firm. And all these factors must be coordinated by nerves of steel.

If a man is to take leading rank among masters of this art, it may be said broadly that he should be equal to any execution in any emergency.

GOOD EVENIN', ALL

By Ben A. Barbour

WHILE feller air hounds, life is some glamlorous affair. Did you ever meet up with one o' them musical quarts—them fellers with a sistern dome, that pooh-poohs an King Tut's ivory sound they hear an' goo round puddin the apple sauce an' sour pickles?

Well, feller patrons, I'm sayin' at no six supper ladies she ole ter night was in because the wife, seven o' them kind o' fellers. She's one a them dames that wear balloon pants an couldn't be down into the street, if she didn't watch out when she's leavin the wiff grabs him off in a six room an drags him to our happy hut, so she can pull the light bill stuff.

She wants to make our boom companies, Goode an' Gern, so mad they won't speak to 'em. Well, that ole chump pretends to know more about music than the guy with his name in lights, an' I'm satisfied with nothin, even if it was wrote by Jassenoff or Jampohn and Showoff wotzis, or one o' them fellers that's over havin' such a celebration with her an' the treats me almost like I was right to get some place.

Rita she is I. "Charlie, all some flashy junk reffer the radio. Mr. Romp ain't got no use for that how know rackets."

I'm with yigers to gif neezed an' I can't help, my self, but smell having an angelin smile to Clara's map.

Indican Test Shows Way to Get Back Clear Healthy Complexion

You simply can not have a clear, fresh, bright skin, free from pimples, boils, etc., if the blood is full of impurities. Your complexion is the natural reflection of your health, and your doctor will tell you that pimples and like skin troubles are nothing but outward signs of inward impurities. Indican is the danger sign which shows that the poisons and foul gases of undigested food are forming in your bowels and seeping through your system. These poisons are said to cause constipation, biliousness, sick headaches, nervousness, sleeplessness, even rheumatism, kidney trouble and other serious ailments. Yet, Indican can be easily detected and corrected. Just see your druggist and ask for a test for Indican. If it shows that you have been using too much meat, or that your bowels have been sluggish, you will be told to drink a glass of hot water each morning and to take a little Carter's Little Liver Pills after meals for a few days. Then have another test for Indican. You will be surprised how the poisons seem to disappear and how much clearer your complexion is.

Can You Stand the Test?

Have somebody make sure of the Indican test for you. Then if you are troubled with constipation, biliousness, sick headaches, nervousness, sleeplessness, pimples, boils, etc., you will be surprised how the Carter's Little Liver Pills help you. Get a vial of them today. Take them as directed. Then have another test for Indican. You will be glad you did. Carter Medicine Co.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

THE manufacturers are making it easier for us all the time to buy automobiles, but the city is making it harder for us to park them.

IN order to use your machine in business you've got to live in the suburbs and work in the country.

A MAN buys a new automobile down town and it's an old car by the time he gets it home.

HE usually has to purchase two machines. One for driving and one for parking.

PEOPLE can no longer refer to their automobiles as "pleasure cars."

FIFTY thousand more people would be buying cars if the dealers could guarantee them a place to park them.

IT'S getting so that you have to buy an automobile and a piece of real estate at the same time.

THERE are so many one-way streets in town that a man is afraid to turn over in bed at night for fear he's breaking the law.

HE goes around so many corners in the daytime that when he retires, he sleeps with his hand out.

ONE guy spent the whole night moving his bed around the room so that he wouldn't be parking over fifteen minutes in one spot.

THE next morning when he woke up he looked on all the bed posts for a ticket.

WHEN his wife shook him to wake him up he thought she was a traffic cop and started to tell her to, was a stranger in town.

THE average motorist tries to observe all the traffic regulations, but in most cases he has to break three laws in order to obey one.

IN another year we'll probably have to park our ears by standing them up on end.

EITHER that or take them apart and carry them into the building with you.

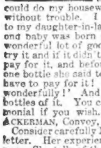
WOMEN BORN 1873 TO 1881

Now Is the Critical Time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will Help You Safely Through

Conroe, Ohio.—"During the Change of Life I was weak and run-down and could hardly do my work. By reading your advertisements I found out about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and thought I would try it. I took it and it did me right out and made me feel like a new woman. By the time I had taken eight bottles I was well and could do my housework on the farm without trouble. I recommended it to my daughter-in-law after her second baby was born and it did her a wonderful lot of good. I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I would pay for it, and before she had taken one bottle she said to me, 'You won't have to pay for it! It is helping me wonderfully!' And she took three bottles of it. You can use my testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. ELSIE ACKERMAN, Conroy, Ohio.



Consider carefully Mrs. Ackerman's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She tells of the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

MAKING LIFE A BURDEN

By Lucy Lowell

IT isn't only beauty that lives in the eye of the beholder.

Whatever you train your eye to look for it will see. Happiness. Success. Defeat.

If you ignore unlikeness it will not exist for you. If your gaze is fixed upon the stars, you will never know that the night is dark.

One of the most gorgeous motor drives in all the world winds along the hills on the west bank of the Hudson. Before that lordly panorama of river and everlasting hills men and women have felt their souls "to higher levels rise."

Others rush by fussing at the uglies of the factory sheds on the opposite side of the road.

Grandfather Dean started out in life looking for illness.

Now, after ninety-seven years, he is still looking for it—and finding it, of course.

Not that there's anything wrong with him, really. The doctors say that he's a "pretty hale old specimen for a nonagenarian," and while a little when he talks about the "misery in his back."

Grandfather Dean has bright blue eyes that twinkle in spite of himself, and a ruddy face and bushy white hair and whiskers.

His tall figure is sure and straight as a young man's excepting as he trouble himself to bend over his cane looking for illness, and his voice is the plaintive wilne of one who has resigned himself to the worst.

"Look sharp," says Grandfather Dean. "I've never had a well day in ninety-seven years. Don't care what the doctors say. Guess I know better'n they do how I feel. And I feel terrible. You mark my words—something's going to happen some day. Last night I didn't sleep a wink with the pain I had right here. Shouldn't wonder if my heart was giving way. Then I got trouble right here. It's probably diabetes. And on this side—"

And so on. Then Grandma Dean speaks up:

"Many and many a night I've given him up for dead!"

She wondered how they accounted to themselves for the fact that every morning of their seventy-five years of marriage they've been able to get up at five o'clock and do the work of their little farm and raise one generation of children and help raise three other generations?

I have an idea that if they were motoring along the gorgeous drive on the west bank of the Hudson, they'd see the billboards instead of the lordly panorama of river and everlasting hills!

BEDTIME STORY

Broadcast Daily at 5:30 P. M. Through Station WNAC

MOVING DAY IN THE COOT FAMILY.

By Foxy Grandpa.

BOBBY and I were skimming along the smooth, winding roads of northern England on our bicycles, for we were taking a tike trip through the lake country.

We came to a beautiful lake and got off to eat our lunch.

Suddenly Bobby came running from the edge of the lake to where I sat and said:

"Come over here, Foxy Grandpa! I've found a bird's nest!"

I looked carefully, and sure enough, there, built up on the reeds as if they were stilts was a rough nest. And sitting on the nest was a pretty brown bird with a white shining plate just above its head.

"Pooh," I whispered, "you'll scare the marsh hen."

"She must have a lot of eggs under her," whispered Bobby, "or she wouldn't you think she would be so nervous living there right over the water? Suppose it would rain and the lake would rise?"

"That wouldn't worry the coot," said Bunny. "They'd just raise their nests up a little higher above the water. They know their perks in emergencies, that family."

We went our way—further north. But when we turned to come south we were held up several days by hard rains.

QUESTIONNAIRE

Doesn't a married man ever lose his voice from lack of use?

Why do they ever have matinees if a star can't shine in the day time?

Why is the French pastry soon one else is eating always look better than the place we picked?

What would some people talk about if we didn't have the weather?

We took the same roads back and as we came to the lake where we had seen the nest, Bobby said:

"This lake is very high, Foxy Grandpa. I wonder if the coots have moved up a floor."

When we arrived at the spot where we had stopped for lunch before, we jumped off our bikes and went to the water's edge.

"Look how high the water is!" shouted Bobby.

"And look how high the coot's nest is," said Bunny, for it was way up on the very top of the reeds and appeared to be all but floating.

Suddenly, that nest did begin to float. Bobby and I held our breath and I considered wadding out to rescue the family from what I thought was destruction. But Bunny checked me.

"Don't worry, Foxy Grandpa. They will just float along until they find a convenient mooring. Then they'd be up. They don't mind moving their residence at all."

Off floated the coot family, serenely, Mr. and Mrs. Coot sitting calmly on their nest. Not a feather was ruffled.

"Would be kind of fun to live in a houseboat, wouldn't it?" asked Bobby as we mounted our wheels and rode off.

MRS. CHATTER AT THE CLUB

By Mary Steele

"WELL, the program says that Mrs. Jane Jones is to talk on topic. Heaven knows what Mr. Chatter says that all I know about political economy is spelling my name in big letters every year for a new tax list.

"The chatter is such a screamer. Last election he told me that the only way I'd ever have for a ballot box would be to carry the fence around it. He's such a scream.

"Whom did you vote for for Congressman? Well, everybody said he was the wise for the place but Mr. Hanson was so good-looking that I simply could not resist voting for him. I do think he's stunning and would be such a decoration for the House.

"I didn't vote at all last year. It was raining, you know, so I couldn't wear the new hat I had planned to and I simply wouldn't be seen at the polls in my old one.

"Last night I was wondering if the Presidential chair was made of iron or steel or what, and Mr. Chatter told me not to worry my little head about it. He said that he'd never known so silly a woman as I was unbolstered in pink satin with purple rosebuds.

"I was simply enraged. Who in the world ever heard of purple rosebuds. Anyway, I never have had one in my hair. Mine is so much more becoming to blondes, don't you think?

"Why dear Mrs. Mischmoer, who would ever think of seeing you here. Well, as I was telling Mr. Chatter only this morning at breakfast, it's a small world after all, and he said, 'You darn small. It keeps you hopping into people you don't want to see.' Isn't he comical? But then he's always touchy like that just after he finishes shaving. If ever I know how anyone seems to bring out the worst in a man.

"Such an interesting subject for the meeting today, isn't it? I simply adore politics. Mr. Chatter says there'd be mighty few sweeping victories if they depended on me to handle the broom, but of course he just says that to be funny. Don't be a screamer."

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

This is the season for "Spring cleaning," as most of us are intended to happenings at home. The dirt that means accumulations of all kinds are coming on, everything is put in apparent order.

Do you subject yourself to a Spring overhauling, to a Spring weeding-out?

I recently heard a large audience of business and financial leaders of this nation of twenty-five millions urged to go through periodical examinations as to the mental condition of their business brains, same as health is had. I had occasion the other day to see pieces of large affairs undergoing pieces of overhauling. Was a surprising number of "pet" ideas and "pet" lines which we replied have adopted the plan of being examined at least once a year. Said a friend of mine, "I am a confirmed believer in periodical examinations."

If the brainy leaders who have succeeded in climbing to the summits of prosperity and who are forthcoming with expert responsibility to take the time to inspect themselves to find out if anything would prove be guilding to the rest of us to follow their example.

* * *

Turning from individuals to business organizations, how many of them make a point of carrying out a thorough, searching inventory? Our books are subject regularly to close "Spring cleaning." Is our business?

* * *

What are some of the benefits that can be derived from a "Spring cleaning" as thoroughly as I have described out by every efficient business wife?

From Herbert N. Casson comes these suggestions, which are commended to the attention of every executive, out business man in America:

Isn't it true that in every business there are heaps of papers that ought to be filed or scrapped?

Aren't there desk-piles, of forgotten goods on the top of shelves and in corners?

Aren't there old machines and equipment and tools which are no longer of use to the management or out in the yard that ought to be sold to the junkman?

If not loose is factory aren't there at least the machines in bad order and three hopelessly out of date?

If you have a retail shop, are you not using an old-fashioned sales system that wastes ten seconds of waste time on every parcel?

If you have an office, are not half of your typewriters in bad order and is not one of them unfit for further service?

Are you still using the clumsy time-wasting ledger and index-bound of loose-leaf ledgers and cards?

Is your filing system a general receptacle of lost papers, instead of a properly organized department with one person in charge of it?

Have you too many typists? Do you need a telephone or an addressing machine?

Have you an internal telephone system, and do you and the managers spend an hour a day walking the floors?

How many of your employes did so well that you think they deserved to be promoted?

Have you enough electric lights? Are they clean? Are they there is no glare and no dimness?

Are you using the right lubricants?

Do your stenos know how to stoke or are they wasting 20 per cent. of your coal?

Are your buildings dingy? Do they need to be repainted up? Are you proud of your own front door?

Can you save money by buying better equipment?

Is your stores department well kept? Can anything be lost or stolen?

Is your system, mostly guesswork? Do you know that you lose money but not how?

Are you receiving and resisting on self-encouragement to leaders?

Are you against stock in a rut with machinery, equipment and an inferior employes?

I suppose, despite the art myself, but I have repeatedly noticed that the desks of most of our conspicuously successful financiers are disorderly. Others are kept scrupulously free of piles of letters, papers, memoranda or other debris. I happened to look in to see Clarence Barron, the head of the Dow-Jones, the morning of the $15,000,000 Long Island sale. I could see his desk from the door. It was in order of date, not in his desk.

* * *

Well, how is it? Have you made up your mind to do "Spring cleaning"?

Dropped.

OIL FIGURES ARE PUZZLE TO MANY

By FRANK H. MELDON
Financial Editor

There was a paragraph in the press summary recently about a New England man of late finding it difficult to get his oil statistics from Washington. He could no longer get them by mail, but had to go to the summary and look for another.

The situation was no surprise to us. It seemed to us inevitable, for instance, when

How long will it be before Wall Street makes the proper distinction between statistics of light and heavy oil is not plain at present, but it cannot be far off. Wall Street the past few years has been paying oil stocks on the basis of production.

"Quite automatically" it has bought oil stocks when production has declared and sold them when it has in fact declined.

The way to get when the increase was 200% or so during 1923 and 1924 in 1925 eight of the greatest fight oil pools reached their peak, including such phenomenal pools as Long Beach, Santa Fe Springs and Huntington Beach in California and Thrall in east central Texas.

In 1924 scores more light oil pools came in, so that the increase in total production was practically all in light oil.

Except for one great boom in the Wortham pool in east central Texas in December 1924, no new light oil pools of any great size has been brought in. Whatever increase in production we are getting, and it is relatively small, is due to not put of heavy oil along the Gulf Coast and in other parts of the area in Arkansas. If Wall Street continues to apply its test of prediction to oil securities it is going to be fooled, because pellets of light oil must soon result from diminution of heavy oil on account of the persistent decline in light oil production. There has been a decline of more than 10% per month a day of light oil production the past 10 weeks.

"In smackover, in particular, increased production will benefit no one much. Perhaps two or three refineries can handle smackover crude, which is about 21 gravity and yields gasoline only under cracking. For the most part even the refineries that handle smackover is being stored in open northern reservoirs, and if it is so contained during the Summer it will be worthless, for what little gasoline value it has.

"While there is a substantial surplus of gasoline in storage, one of the biggest refiners expects to see his surplus reduced to a nominal amount by end of Summer."

A concerted effort among consumers of peppermint oil to break down the price by refusing to purchase except in the smallest amounts of bare and by using substitutes wherever possible, is having an appreciable effect on the market, Drug & Chem Markets says this issue of that publication.

But manufacturers of confections, toilet goods, and allied products have in their consumption of peppermint oil to the minimum that can possibly be to the high price, which is eight or nine times normal and more than double the highest figure reached during the war. A widespread reduction of buying brought a drop in price this week as dealers in the cities became uneasy over the stagnation of high priced stocks of the oil. Distillation of new 1925 oil will begin in July.

Secretary Thomas F. Anderson of New England Shoe & Leather Association says that despite pessimistic talk among New England shoe industrialists there is nothing fundamentally wrong, and that depression in past few years has been due to some economic difficulties which have been or are being overcome. The industry as a whole, plus a few purely local problems that are remediable if right methods are applied, such as real co-operation.

Miami, the latest of the Boston-failed suppers to "boom" breaking slump in a few weeks ago when another enthusiastic group, in exhibition of new reserves, does not offer much cheer to the stockholders at this time.

At annual meeting of Miami Copper Co., J. Parke Channing, vice-president stated that while the company has intended to declare dividends by month or so longer, in further attempt to find fanciful part of high grade ore, it has decided that policy which gives an hope of finding an important ore body.

Mr. Channing said there was no other fault with the property that gave hopes of high-grade ore, and only possibility was in small extension of Cornelia "granite."

Mr. Channing stated that the management hopes to have mill capacity increased to 20,000 tons per day by the end of July. By treating 2,000,000 tons of low grade ore it is estimated company can obtain output of 50,000,000 pounds of copper. Cost, he stated, would be about 12¢ cents a pound.

"Is religion being smuggled into the public schools of America?"

This is the question which will occupy the thirteenth annual convention of the United Synagogue of America which will meet in Atlantic City, May 2, 3 and 4.

The discussion will range around a survey now being made by Rabbi Samuel M. Cohen, executive director of the United Synagogue of America.

"In some of the communities," Rabbi Cohen says, "the co-operation of the school authorities is expressed merely by permitting the children to absent themselves from public school for certain hours each week to enable them to attend religious classes conducted by representatives of various denominations. In other communities, credits are allowed for religious instruction, while in some of the States attendance in religious classes is made practically compulsory for school children.

"The problem of religious training for children is as vital to the Jewish children as to other denominations."

The Rabbi continues:

"It is only by ascertaining what effect this new movement is having on children of other sects that it can be possible to decide to what extent it should be participated in, if at all, by the Jews."

The United Synagogue of America is the central organization of synagogues in this country following the traditional form of Jewish worship in consonance with the American environment and conditions of modern life.

Affiliated with it are a Women's and a Young People's League. It maintains student houses and conducts religious services for students in various college and university centers.

Between 500 and 600 delegates from all over the country are expected to take part in this Atlantic City convention, which will be held on the roofgarden of the Breakers Hotel.

Of much interest to Chelsea and Mattapan young folks is the engagement of Miss Bertha Tansman of 107 Elm Hill avenue, Chelsea, to Benjamin Segal of No. 586 Norfolk street, Mattapan. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. Segal is a leaders of the New England Jewish Association. Mr. Segal belongs to the Massachusetts Benevolent Association and the Lincoln House Club.

Passover festivities end tonight and all over the city both the young and old will bid farewell to matzoth. Once more milk and butter, bread and cake will see its place on the table. Passover wine and "muzzes" will be set aside and the Jew will again live as of previous days.

The fast of eight days has been consumed, the liberation of the Jew has been celebrated, and the Passover dishes have been put away until next year. This festive holiday had an added significance this year. The commemoration of the Hebrew University at Symphony Hall by the leading Christian men of the Jews and Gentiles marked a new era in the history of the Jew.

OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED BY WOMEN'S LEAGUE

At the fourteenth annual meeting of the Women's Municipal League held at the home of Mrs. Everett Morse, the following newly-elected officers were installed: President pro tem, Mrs. Robert Peattie, Palmer, 2d; vice-presidents, Mrs. Thomas Sherwin and Mrs. Everett Morss; organizing secretary, Miss Catherine Burke; recording secretary, Mrs. David J. Evans; treasurer, Mrs. Henry D. Tudor; directors for three years, Mrs. Theodore G. Bremer, Mrs. Harvey Bundy, Miss Esther Barrows and Mrs. C. B. Hugo. Speaking of the new citizenship courses now started in the schools of Boston, Joseph B. Eaton of the Harvard School in Charlestown, praised the league for its aid in furthering this work. Mrs. Eva W. White, the speaker of the day, in describing the work of the league recalled its past achievements in fostering the physical recreations of the city and arousing citizens to a finer appreciation of their civic duties. She urged the necessity of further supporting the work on account of its widened range of activities.

JORDAN MARSH BUYS 10-STORY ADDITION

Jordan Marsh Company has bought the corner property, which has for many years been occupied by its furniture department, extending from 442 to 454 Washington street, around to front, also on Avon and Bedford streets.

The new building covers 7,500 square feet of land. The total property value on the assessors' books is $658,600, of which the land value is $434,000 and the building $223,500. It is a fireproof building. The upper stories were added a few years ago to meet the growing space requirements of the furniture department.

The property was sold by Howard Stockton, Charles Francis Adams and Allan Forbes, trustees of the Francis Real Estate Trust, C. W. Devine & Brother were brokers for Jordan Marsh Company.

Heckling the President

A Mischief-Making Pastime—Why Not Let the Cabinet Members Give Out Their Own News?

For the second time within three months the twice-a-week heckling party to which a hundred or more correspondents of American and alien newspapers subject The Man in the White House, has embarrassed the foreign relations of the United States and made the American people the target for unjustifiable criticism abroad.

Both times President Coolidge has been indirectly quoted regarding a foreign country. After each quotation of his alleged comments it has been necessary for the Department of State to issue an explanation in the nature of a contradiction of the original quotation.

Why should the President of the United States allow himself to be publicly heckled twice a week by as many representatives of foreign and domestic newspapers as care to crowd his office? Who started the unseemly and unprofitable custom, and why in the name of common sense should it be continued?

This heckling party is not a Roosevelt tradition—it is a hangover from the Harding administration.

It is a waste of time for the President and a waste of time for the press, and it is in keeping with the dignity of neither.

It reflects on the members of the Cabinet, because it gives the public the impression that the President cannot trust the members of his Cabinet to talk to the American people through their press about the work of their respective departments.

It reflects on the press, because the questions frequently advertise the ignorance of its representatives concerning the elementary facts about their own government.

It is a reflection on The Man in the White House, because it gives the public the impression that he is trying to talk when he has nothing to say.

The government at Washington is not a one-man government. It has three branches: Executive, Legislative and Judicial. Nor is the Executive branch a one-man branch. Its head is the Chief Executive, but each one of the executive departments has its own departmental head, appointed by the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Senators and Representatives in Congress, Ambassadors and Ministers from foreign countries are not compelled to heckle the President twice a week in order to get news about the work of the executive departments. Why should not the American press be encouraged to exercise the same rights regarding the news of their own government that Senators and members of Congress and foreign diplomats now exercise.

The Washington correspondents of the American press are the eyes of the American people at the executive end of Pennsylvania avenue; the Senators and Representatives in Congress their representatives and legislators at the other.

And The Man in the White House represents the whole people in their corporate capacity as a Nation. He delegates his power in many directions. He might well delegate to the members of his Cabinet and to the Secretary to the President the all-important duty of giving the American people each day, or twice a day, through their press the day's news about the government.

This used to be the custom of the White House. It is a custom that might well be revived. Its revival would retire the twice-a-week innovation inherited by President Coolidge from his predecessor, which doubtless on that account he has hesitated to dispense with.

Perhaps Mr. Coolidge will revive the good old custom when he is surrounded by a Cabinet of his own choice—a Cabinet qualified to be his chosen spokesmen, not only to Senators and Representatives in Congress and to the foreign diplomats, but also to the unofficial envoys at Washington of the American people—the representatives in "the Federal City" of the American press.

Then President Coolidge would have the time, and the inclination on occasion, to receive any American correspondent or group of correspondents having a question of sufficient importance to justify the individual or the group in taking the question directly to the head servant of the American people.

When French Women Start

Look Out. They Have Will Power

Miss Alice Paul, a working, fighting suffragette, has gone to Paris to organize the French women for votes. If she succeeds and the women of France make up their minds to vote, THEY WILL VOTE.

The quiet French woman, seen sitting behind the cashier's desk in her husband's shop, with her hair in nice, precise, little ringlets, has back of her pleasant smile an amount of determination that would scare the average Nordic half to death, if he could understand it.

Miss Paul will have for her suffragette material the great-granddaughters of ladies that sat around the guillotine, knitting and looking, while the king, and then his widow, Marie Antoinette, and Madame Roland and Danton, Robespierre, revolutionist leaders, passed under the big blade.

Those women WILL GET WHAT THEY WANT.

A Martyr to Science

Another instance of a man who is sacrificing his life for the advance of science is that of Dr. Frederick Henry Baetjer of Johns Hopkins.

He has recently undergone his seventy-first operation. He has lost one eye and eight fingers as the effect of his X-ray experiments. These operations have been due to ulcerous conditions from X-ray burns caused by his work.

He declares he is going to go on experimenting, even though it costs him his life.

"I suppose my researches will eventually kill me," he said, "but I mean to go on with them. I'll die with my boots on."

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

By Helen Rowland

VERILY, my Daughter, one marriage exceeds a Higher Education, and one year of domesticity is more enlightening than three in a university.

Helen Rowland

For, a woman that hath matriculated therein is a Doctor of Philosophy and a Master of Arts, even though naught but a Cooking School diploma adorneth her walls.

And a man that hath passed through the Armageddon of Matrimony is wiser than the Serpent, more elusive than the soap in a bathtub, and more reticent than the Sphinx.

Behold, a bridegroom delighteth to share his secret thoughts with his Beloved; he longeth to reveal his SOUL.

But the secret thoughts of a seasoned husband are more carefully guarded than the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen, and his mouth is more tightly sealed than the stopper of an imported perfume bottle.

A bridegroom rejoiceth in confession; he confideth his "past" and the follies thereof; he boasteth of the women who have loved him, he thinketh to become "interesting" in his Beloved's eyes.

But a seasoned husband ADMITTETH NOTHING, lest it incriminate him. He giveth his wife no "secondary evidence," wherewith to confirm her accusations in a quarrel.

A bridegroom blusheth at his own failings and is filled with penitence. He exclaimeth: "Alas, alas, it was all MY fault!"

But a seasoned husband denyeth all responsibility and sticketh to his LIE unto the last trench. Yea, even with the powder still visible upon his coat-lapel and the clove still fresh upon his breath; he saith: "Up to. It is all thine imagination!"

A bridegroom admiteth that he forgot to mail the letter.

But a seasoned husband assumeth a poker face and pleads dark his delinquency until he can dispose of the evidence thereof.

A bridegroom exclaimeth: "How thou understandeth me! Lo, thou art filled with intuition!"

But the seasoned husband sayeth: "How thou misjudgeth me! Go to. Thou art filled with suspicion!"

A bridegroom, being innocent, taketh no heed to watch his step. But, a seasoned husband will not permit the barber to put perfumed water upon his hair, so exceeding careful is he to avoid the APPEARANCE of evil.

For, a bridegroom walketh in perfect confidence, knowing not the snares and pitfalls that await him. But a seasoned husband is full of subtlety and his motto is "PEACE at any price!"

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Thanks From Mayor Curley

Editor Boston Evening American:

I beg you will accept of my sincere thanks in behalf of the people of Boston for editorial which directed attention to the hostile policy inaugurated apparently purely for political purposes by the majority party in control at the State House. It is most lamentable that necessary public improvements must be delayed and sound business and financial policies disregarded in response to the dictates of political expediency.

The failure to provide the sum of $500,000 to complete the widening of Cambridge and Court streets will force a majority of the property owners who have suffered damages in consequence of the widening to resort to petitions proceedings, which means trial by jury on question of damage awards, and which may result in an ultimate increased cost to the city in excess of $1,000,000.

The refusal of the Legislature to approve an authorization for the right to borrow outside the debt limit the sum of $200,000 for the completion of the widening of Kneeland street may represent an additional cost to the city in excess of one-half million dollars.

The granting of $400,000 for the Congress street bridge, absolutely essential for downtown traffic and which represents but one-half of the amount that in the opinion of the Commissioner of Public Works is absolutely required, means a postponement of this work until another year.

The proposition for the postponement of a major traffic highway until another year, and which action, according to news authorities on Beacon Hill, is due solely to the desire to prevent the present Mayor of Boston from enjoying any credit for this long-needed public improvement, is a dangerous condition of affairs. Stagnation is as dangerous in the city as it is in the individual, and yet the policy adopted by the State means complete stagnation of municipal activities.

JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor.

THE HELPING HAND

Letters Not Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls or Anonymous Letters. No Names Published.

Girl Without Clothing.

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband has been without work all Winter and I have a little girl 10 years old who is without clothing. I would be very thankful if someone would send her underwear and dresses. I can't go out of doors as I also have nothing to wear. I could get a job in a mill, if I had something to wear. Won't someone kindly send me some house dresses or a one-piece suit, size 40, also some underwear. MRS. C. S. 1.

Without Necessaries.

Helping Hand Editor:

Is there any company in Boston that furnishes home work for women? Would also like to get in touch with a company who would buy home knitted men's stockings or one that would furnish sewing to be done at home. We are an elderly couple, own our own home, but have no income or any way of making money to get the necessaries of life. Please help us. MRS. H. C. W.

Oldest of Eight Pleads.

Helping Hand Editor:

I am 9 years of age and the oldest of eight children. We need clothing very badly. There are girls 12, 5, 7 and 2 years, baby girl 4 months and boys 8 and 4 and myself. We also need furniture. We only have one chair and no table at all. We need beds, too. My father is only working two days a week. Please do something for us, as we sure need a lot. GEORGE.

Others In Need.

Mrs. A. A., a poor widow, appeals for clothing for her girls, 13, 11 and 9, and boy 2½, also for herself, size 38.

Mrs. D. S., whose husband has worked a few hours each day for the past six months, would appreciate clothing for three boys 15, 11 and 6 and for herself, size 40, shoes 5. Widowed mother also needs clothing, size 38. If she had some bed clothes and a dresser she could board a couple of children.

Mrs. M. S. would like an old scooter, automobile or velocipede that some boy has discarded, for her little boy sick with the grip.

Elizabeth would appreciate a baby carriage for twins, 3 months old and some clothes for them. Husband only working three days a week.

Mrs. A. G. M. will give a good home, mother's love and provide clothing and food for a baby girl from 3 to 7 months old. Wants to help some mother.

Mrs. K. A. D. writes husband doing time for non-support and she owes rent and doctor's bills. All she wants is to get work to pay these debts. Will be glad to go out house cleaning or do any kind of work. Little girl, twelve is badly in need of clothing.

Nora asks for stroller so she can take baby sister out. Father dead and has four brothers and one sister. Also asks for coat and shoes for brother, age eight.

Gladyce needs a spring coat, 38, and dress, 36. Her sister, twelve, also needs a coat. Father just home from hospital would appreciate lightweight underwear and outside shirts, collar, size 14, and some socks.

Mrs. D., on a small farm, would like to get in touch with any kind reader who happens to have an army French pick, which she needs badly and would be willing to pay for it.

Mrs. L. E. E., under the doctor's care and husband out of work, appeals for food for her children.

Mrs. C. I writes she is greatly in need of clothes for girl, three, and baby, one. Also for mother, who wears size 52, and for husband, size 42. Husband has been out of work three months.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

TODAY is but a bird on wing that flutters freely past, a transitory golden thing whose beauty can not last. Today is but a joyous song, a sweet and lovely strain; on time's swift breezes borne along, how soon its echoes wane! And yesterday brought no content, though fair its dawning gleamed, it is a coin which we have spent, a dream which we have dreamed. Of all the loveliness it held, what glimmer now is left? Of all the wonder that it spelled, how life has been bereft! But one enchantment still endures and with its potent sway, the ills of all the past it cures, the sorrows of today. Tomorrow, shining boundless sea that bears our hope's bright sails, tomorrow's bleat tranquility will know no clouds or gales.

HABITS AND EMOTIONS RUN IN RUTS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

FEW of us realize that emotions are as much the creatures of habit as actions.

Our passions have to have a rut to run in as well as our deeds.

Human nature is a peculiar thing. It is always easier for us to do a thing again that we have done before, and easier in proportion to the number of times we have done it.

The German proverb is perfectly true that says that all beginnings are difficult.

Prudence Penny recently quoted from someone as follows:

"Every established mental condition is an acquired habit, and has become such by continued repetition of thought. Despondency and cheerfulness, anger and calmness, covetousness and generosity—indeed all states of mind—are habits built up by choice, until they have become automatic. A thought constantly repeated at last becomes a fixed habit of the mind, and from such habits develops the life."

One reason why you are angry at a certain thing is that under similar circumstances you have been angry before.

We do not realize that we are irritable and speak sharply and are otherwise disagreeable, simply because we have fallen into the way of it. We have followed the line of least resistance and the habit has grown upon us.

Oppositely, being polite and gentle and loving is not wholly a matter of disposition, but it is largely a matter of habit.

If we get into the way of expressing pleasant thoughts and saying pleasant things, we will continue to do it increasingly, and life will be much easier for us. If we get into the way of repressing any such emotions, it grows constantly easier to repress them.

Character is determined largely by our habits. They are difficult to form. They require an exercise of will power in order to commence them. But with every repetition the will power required is less and finally they operate of themselves.

We do not have to watch a habit. It watches itself. We do not have to be careful of what we shall do. The habit takes care of us.

By forming good habits one places himself in the hands of an automatic policeman who unconsciously determines his course of life.

A habit never sleeps. It is constantly on the job. Good will and good intentions may vary according to our moods and a life that is governed by them is apt to be very spotted indeed. But a man who has created good habits presents a pretty uniformed surface of politeness and gentility.

AROUSING INTEREST IN MATHEMATICS

By Garrett P. Serviss

IT seems to me that the modern mathematical method of dealing with all kinds of physics is a little overdone, except for technical students.

It repels many to whom mathematics are distasteful, and tends to breed prejudice against studies which are essential to sound education, and to a good comprehension of the world in which we live.

On the other hand the study of elementary mathematics ought to be much more attractive than results show it to be in the schools. Too great a number of graduates come out very lame in the arithmetical leg.

The recent remarkable spread of interest in "crossword puzzles," which are widely heralded as strongly educative in their tendency, as they doubtless are, suggests that any equally useful popular interest might be aroused in the curious puzzles that are solvable by simple mathematics.

Apropos comes the following inquiry, the answer to which may serve as an illustration:

"During a friendly discussion the other evening the following was brought up, and there being none of us competent to give a final answer, we have decided to appeal to you. Here is the question:

"Mr. A. has a plot eight feet long and two feet wide. Mr. B wishes to exchange for it a plot containing the same area, but in the form of a circle. What must be the approximate circumference of the circle?"

In solving this little problem some of the most useful data of plain geometry, which really ought to be as familiar almost as the multiplication table or the alphabet, may be called into interesting play as a very pleasing intellectual exercise.

That powerful little mathematical demon called "Pi," for instance, immediately steps to the front and says: "This is my job. Watch me work."

The area of Mr. A's rectangular plot, which is 8 feet long and 2 feet wide, must, of course, be 8x2, or 16 square feet. Mr. B. is required to enclose approximately the same area within the circumference of a circle. Now there are two rules of plain geometry, in each of which "Pi" takes a hand, that will help him out. The first tells us that the area of any circle equals the square of its radius, multiplied by Pi, for Pi is a certain number (just what the number is we shall presently see).

The second rule says that the circumference of any circle equals twice its radius multiplied by Pi. Let us set these rules at work together.

The area required is 16. Then, by the first rule, 16 must be equal to radius squared (call it R²), multiplied by Pi. Put it this way in symbols: R²P=16. That being so, evidently R²=16-Pi. Before solving that equation we must know what Pi equals numerically.

Well, it has no perfectly determinate value, and that is the reason why "squaring the circle" (except approximately) is impossible. A sufficiently close value of Pi for almost all practical calculations is the mixed decimal 3.1416. In many cases 3.15, or 3 1-7 suffices. In this case we will use 3.14 to save figures.

Now, 16 divided by 3.14 gives, approximately, 5.0955. Look back at the equation and you see that this is the square of the radius of the circle.

The radius, then, will equal the square root of 5.0955, which is approximately 2.2573. We need the radius in order to calculate by the second rule, the circumference.

The second rule says multiply twice the radius by Pi and that will give the circumference. Twice 2.2573 is 4.515, and that multiplied by 3.14 gives 14.1671 feet for the circumference of Mr. B's circle which tells us to include approximately the 16 feet of Mr. A's rectangular plot.

Of course if a closer value of Pi were taken the figures for the circumference would be slightly different. Closer approximations in some of the other figures that I have used would also have a slight effect on the result.

But I have only intended to show you a way in which the problem may be solved, if you wish you can carry the decimals out farther.

ONCE-OVERS

HAVE YOU A CORNER ON OPINIONS?

You have rather exalted ideas about those opinions of yours, eh? Men with pet opinions seldom have had much experience.

They may have been in a certain position with just one point of view for a long time, so that they have become dictators in that particular line.

You are standing in your own light when you let your own opinions be known so emphatically that others dare not present their ideas.

You are losing much that might benefit you, because you are so bound up in your own way of thinking that you do not listen to ideas advanced by others.

Your brains have no monopoly on your line of work.

Even if hundreds of men do your bidding each day, you can still earn from the humblest worker you have if your mind is open.

Dealing with many men you may have hardened yourself because you thought it necessary in order to keep their respectful obedience, but that is no reason why you should not listen sometimes and learn a few things outside your own mental machinery.
